Ghouls Could Get 5 Years in Jail

(See also Page 3)
The two youths and two teen-agers charged with offering an indignity to a male corpse in the Alberni cemetery last Sunday have been formally charged and will appear in city police court in Alberni Oct. 6.
In custody are David Windsor Ferguson, 19, William Harold Nelson, 18, and waitresses Alma Doreen Lockner, 19, and Jean Gibson, 17.
They face a maximum penalty of five years each under the section of the Criminal Code dealing with desecration of graves and corpses.

A male corpse was unearthed with a shovel, the casket broken open, a logging chain attached to one ankle and the body towed about 12 feet from the graveside by a car.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY

In addition, grave headstones were thrown around.
Nelson has already pleaded guilty. Ferguson has reserved his plea and the two girls have not pleaded.

Ferguson and Nelson reportedly were with two other girls earlier in the evening and jealous over Rock 'n' Roll idol Elvis Presley is believed to have provoked the cemetery raid. The girls friends were reported to have left the youths, who then picked up the waitresses and returned to complete the gruesome work.

Possibility of psychiatric examination is being studied.
It is expected all four will be transferred to Oakalla prison on the mainland to await trial.

Laing Undecided On His Future As Liberal Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Arthur Laing said Friday night he is considering whether he should resign.

He made the statement after a holiday that followed the defeat of his party and himself in the Sept. 19 election.

"I have come to no final decision," he said.
There was no discussion of his leadership at a day-long meeting here Friday of officers of the B.C. Liberal Association. Liberal leaders said only a provincial convention could discuss the question of leadership and there is no Liberal convention planned for 1957.

CANADA'S TRUCE TEAM IN WEEKEND MAGAZINE

FUND DRIVE OPENS MONDAY

Governor Premier Urge Chest Support

"Give and ye shall receive." As members of society, we receive what we put into it. The health of society is our health.

Thus the 1956 Red Feather campaign opens Monday, Victoria's 20th, which since 1937 has raised $2,225,000 for local charities.

The Chest wants $220,000 this year to handle needs of 19 agencies, ranging from muscular dystrophy to care of the blind.

All the area's leading citizens are behind the drive, which lasts to Oct. 27.

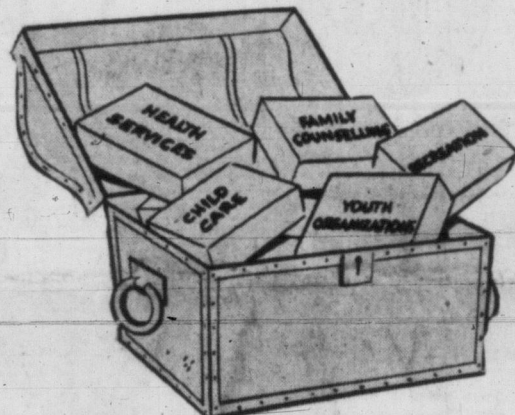

To persons who say "I would not give a nickel" and, unfortunately there are a few of these, Chest officials make this retort:

"Rarely do we go through life without needing help, either monetary, physical or spiritual. The person who can't realize that his may be the next case, or that of his family, is short-sighted indeed. Altogether apart from that, this world is not built on selfishness. In a mature society, we are our brothers' keepers." Said Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross: "It should be the duty of every citizen, in good health and in full employment, to make some contribution, large or small."

The reward, he said, is in helping the less fortunate.

For example, everybody likes a child. And one of the Chest agencies is the Family and Children's Service which does just that; placing children from broken homes; trying to re-establish these homes; helping the children themselves with adjustment.

Said Premier W. A. C. Bennett: "It is our earnest hope people meet the urgent need. The 19 agencies represent more than help for the needy. They represent a lesson in everyday Christianity."

Persecution Drove Mother Mad, Poznan Rioter Sobs in Court

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—A sobbing Polish youth today testified that the false imprisonment of his father, a veteran Communist, four years ago had driven his mother mad and made his brother commit suicide.

In a choked voice, 22-year-old Janusz Suwart addressed the court trying him and eight other youths for stealing and setting fire to security headquarters during the Poznan riots June 28 in which 33 persons were killed and about 200 injured.

In a second court three other men are being tried for murdering a security officer. Altogether, 153 persons are under indictment as a result of the "black Thursday" bread riots.

Presiding Judge Weisaw Celinski warned the final 10 witnesses to show neither hatred nor sympathy for the three men accused of murder.

Witnesses said the officer was beaten, kicked and trampled upon until he "looked something horrible."

THIS AMAZING WORLD OF FUR-LINED BATHTUBS AND ELVIS PRESLEY

Oil, Oil Everywhere—On Basement Floor

TORONTO (CP)—A fuel truck pulled up at a city house this week and the operator pumped 200 gallons of oil into the basement before an upset housewife rushed out to tell him there no longer is a fuel tank there.

Mrs. Stefan Chorny said she smelled the fumes and ran to the basement to find thick oil swirling over the floor and seeping dangerously close to the pilot light of a newly installed gas-heated tank.

Firemen used bags of absorbent material to drain the oil.

CALGARY (CP)—The Better Business Bureau here says it has had some peculiar requests but the latest tops them all.

Several Calgarians have inquired as the legitimacy of a door-to-door saleswoman taking orders for "fur-lined bathtubs."

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Charles Kuenzi was in the hospital delivery room when his wife gave birth to a girl, their fifth child, Friday.

Mrs. Kuenzi and the baby came through in fine shape, but Kuenzi fainted, fell, broke his jaw, broke his nose, suffered concussion and was put to bed in the same hospital.

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A New York man was arrested Friday and accused of sending

ing a letter to Eddie Arcaro, one of the world's top jockeys, demanding $200 to recoup money he lost betting on horses Arcaro rode.

Irving Weissman, 50, held in $1,000 bail, said: "I always lose when I bet on him and when I bet against him he wins."

DETROIT (AP)—Sweating, tired workmen leaned on their shovels Friday with a helpless look in their eyes. For two days they've been searching for a 500-foot sewer and they can't find it. Although it's shown on a sewer map, several ditches dug across streets and the efforts of an electric pipe locator have been to no avail.

If it can't be found says suburban Madison Heights city manager Donald Smith, a new sewer will have to be laid—at a cost of $3,000.

CAIRO (AP)—Addicts of hashish, a prohibited drug in Egypt, are using a new cover-up brand name to get supplies—they ask for "the users' association."

The Egyptian press commented dryly Friday: "This 'users' association brand of hashish is of the poorest quality."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—If you were an attractive, 20-year-old girl and saw your picture in a magazine with Elvis Presley's head on your shoulder, what would you do?
Robbie Moore threatened to sue. And Presley, the rock 'n' roll singer, paid her $5,500 in an out-of-court settlement.
Presley told reporters he had known Miss Moore "for many years and had no idea she would object to the picture."

Somoza Succumbs To Assassin Bullet

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP)—President Anastasio Somoza, undisputed strong man of Nicaragua for 20 years, died today of an assassin's bullet.

The 60-year-old Central American leader never regained full consciousness after an operation performed Sunday by a surgical team including United States surgeons sent by President Eisenhower.

He died in the U.S.-operated Gorgas Hospital in the Panama Canal Zone, where he was flown following the Sept. 21 shooting in which he suffered four wounds.

He had been on a campaign tour seeking another six-year term as president when he was felled at a party and dance at Leon, 45 miles outside Managua, the capital. His assassin, Lopez Perez, a 27-year-old typesetter, was shot dead on the spot by the president's guards.

Under Nicaragua law, Somoza's 34-year-old son, Luis, succeeds to the presidency. Congress made him acting-president Friday. Another son, Anastasio, Jr., 32, is head of the Nicaraguan army.

Somoza died at 5:05 a.m., a few minutes after receiving the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church. The colorful, 200-pound president had showed steady but slight improvement in the five days following the operation, but at midnight Friday night his condition took a grave turn.

Somoza's son-in-law, Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Nicaraguan ambassador in Washington, told reporters the body would be flown to Managua today or tomorrow.

In Somoza's room at the end were his wife, daughter and President Ricardo Arias of Panama.

Somoza was undisputed ruler of Nicaragua for 20 years. He got his boost up the ladder from the United States.

Head-On Crash At Chilliwack Kills Woman

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Mrs. Nan Armstrong, about 55, of Chilliwack, was killed and three men seriously injured in a head-on collision between two cars on the Trans-Canada Highway near here Friday night.

The injured, all residents of Chilliwack, are William Hart, 60, John Stokes and a Mr. Thew. Hart, said by police to have been the driver of the car in which Mrs. Armstrong was riding, was in critical condition in hospital with multiple injuries.

Stokes and Thew both suffered head injuries and broken ribs.

Manchester U. Hikes Lead In Football

LONDON (UP)—Manchester United, defending first division champion in the British Soccer League, increased its lead to two points and its unbeaten break to 10 games today by defeating Arsenal, 2-1.

The defending champions have won eight games and tied two this season for a total of 18 points.

Leeds remained second but fell two points behind Manchester United when it could only salvage a 2-2 tie with Luton. Leeds has 16 points.

Jailed 24 Years Pleads to Die

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After 24 years in prison, Gilbert F. Colie, one-time "gorilla man" of San Bernardino County, has asked the California Supreme Court to execute him and free him "from this living death" of a life term.

In a written plea Friday, Colie, now 76, said:

"I ask that the court set aside the commutation and that the death penalty be invoked to give me a more merciful and humane death by hanging, as provided by the original sentence."

"I am old... ready for death and tired of this mockery of justice. It appears the courts take sadistic glee in refusing to hear me. I want freedom from this living death."

Colie called the "gorilla man" because of his tremendous strength and black beard, was convicted in 1932 of the murder of two men. He was sentenced to be hanged, California's legal form of execution then.

He became deranged waiting for execution and was sent to a state hospital where psychiatrists determined that he could retain his sanity when not faced with the threat of execution.

The late governor James Rolph commuted the sentence to life imprisonment with a permanent injunction against parole.

SIMPLE, BRIEF RITES

Friends, Celebrities Honor Beloved Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The beautiful but simple Lutheran service for the burial of the dead was read Friday for Babe Dirksen Zaharias.

Hundreds of residents of the home town the Babe never forgot joined with celebrities of the sports world for the funeral services of the world's greatest woman athlete. She died Thursday.

"The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want," Rev. A. C. Wydek read from the 23rd psalm in opening the brief service in Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

The small church of buff tile and brick is only a few blocks from the old Dirksen home on Daunt Street where the Babe as a tomboy began to capture the admiration of her hometown and the world.

To the pastor's right in the 500-seat chapel was the blue silk casket of redwood. Immediately in front of the casket sat George Zaharias, the 300-pound husband who tenderly attended the Babe's every need during a three-year battle she knew she could not win. Death ended the battle in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex. Cyster had ravaged the once powerful body—reducing its weight from 145 to 80 pounds—but it never defeated the Babe's spirit.

With a handkerchief, George wiped away tears as he left the funeral home chapel. Then he departed for Forest Lawn Memorial Park to select a burial plot on which George plans to erect a large monument to the courageous woman he, Beaumont, and the world loved so well.

EXPERTS' FINDINGS DUE SHORTLY

Smoking-Lung Cancer Link Proved by 4-Year Study

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Telegram and Sun says in a copyrighted story that the American Cancer Society final report on a survey of smoking habits will "flatly state" there is a relationship between cigarette smoking and death from lung cancer.

The report, ending a four-year study, is not to be issued for several months.

Officials of the cancer society said it is their opinion that the report will offer the conclusions as published by the newspaper.

They explained, however, that previous reports issued by the society offered the same conclusions and that the forthcoming report merely will serve as a survey-ending step.

Some of the points cited by the newspaper:

The lung cancer rate for habitual cigarette smokers—those who smoke about a pack a day—is about 10 times as high as for men who don't smoke at all.

Popov Worked On Spy Chain, PM Reports

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says expelled Russian diplomat Gennadi Popov was a suspected NKVD espionage agent trying to set up spy links in Canada.

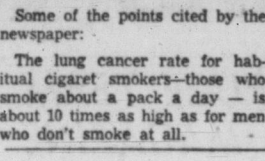

But he indicated at a press conference Friday he wished the story of the Popov-Staples affair had not become public. He would have wanted to keep it under wraps to protect James Stanley Staples' name and to prevent the possibility of the affair being blown up into an international incident.

He would not be surprised, he said, if all foreign governments represented in Canada had spy systems, though not necessarily operating in this country. In any case Canada had a "pretty efficient" counter-espionage organization.

Some of the points cited by the newspaper:

The lung cancer rate for habitual cigarette smokers—those who smoke about a pack a day—is about 10 times as high as for men who don't smoke at all.

Police Club Crowd Trying to See Princess

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (Reuters)—Police used clubs to beat back excited Mauritians fighting to get a glimpse of Princess Margaret as she came ashore today to this Indian Ocean island from the royal yacht Britannia.

The crowd was in an ugly mood for a moment until it was distracted by the appearance of the King's African Rifles band and the princess' guard of honor.

But the embattled Mauritians cheered as the princess stepped ashore on a thick red carpet and walked smiling to a rose-bedecked reception platform.

Despite a last-minute political ruckus which led one council member to plead with Mauritian to boycott Margaret's reception because of the extra expense of the visit, she was cheered by waving crowds all along her route.

FINGERPRINTING of William Nelson, 18, one of four teen-agers charged with offering indignity to a human body, is done by Constable Bud Foreman of Alberni RCMP.

IN CHARGE of investigations which led to arrests in cemetery desecration at Port Alberni was RCMP Constable Bert Giberson, Alberni.

Public Demands Swift Justice In Grave Orgy

Public clamor for swift justice following arrest of two youths and two girls charged with offering indignity to a human body in the cemetery at Alberni, today was unabated six days after the nightmarish event.

Charges face David Windsor, 19, and William Harold Nelson, 18, of Alberni, and waitresses Alma Doreen Lockner, 19, and Jean Gibson, 17, of Nanaimo.

The body of an elderly man, buried in July, was hauled from his grave by a logging chain attached to an ankle. Grave headstones were tossed about in an unexplained Sunday night orgy session in Greenwood Cemetery.

St. Laurent Eager To Hit Hustings

By VICTOR J. MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Prime Minister St. Laurent, looking extremely fit after his summer vacation, spoke Friday with an enthusiasm about the coming election campaign that indicated he was ready and eager to embark upon a cross-country tour of the hustings.

Vigorously he told reporters there "will be no delay" in calling the next general election.

He added that he would like a campaign after the lines of 1949 when he toured the country speaking at least once and sometimes as many as three times in a day.

He was asked by this reporter if he would again be travelling coast to coast. He replied, "Well that depends of course on many factors at the time the election is called. But I certainly would like the chance to cross the country."

JUNE 10

He said there will be a general election before another year is out.

(It is generally assumed in political circles here that the next federal election will be in June, 1957, possibly on June 10.)

Mr. St. Laurent declined to speculate as to a possible date.

The prime minister noted there had been suggestions that the election might be postponed until the Progressive Conservatives had an opportunity to select a new leader and prepare for the next campaign. He said Mr. Drew's resignation had come sufficiently far ahead of the possible election date that the Conservatives had ample time to select a new leader and prepare for the next election.

He snapped, "There will be no delay."

He obviously enjoyed himself at this his first press conference since July, 1955. He appeared refreshed in mind, body and spirit by his vacation at St. Patrick, Que. He gave the impression that he is eager to embark on the election campaign, convinced of another victory at the polls.

Insulin is a substance produced in the body by the pancreas. Insulin helps turn the sugar a person eats into heat and energy. Failure on the part of the body to make enough insulin is one of the many causes of diabetes. When that is the case, the diabetic must obtain additional supplies of insulin by injection in the amounts and frequency specified by the doctor. An important part of our health service is to maintain fresh supplies of insulin which we keep under refrigeration at the correct temperature to assure full effectiveness. The Colonel Rides High FORTHCOMING UNITED Nations discussion of the Suez problem could produce a solution, but the efforts of Indian mediator V. K. Krishna Menon appear to offer a hope of earlier success. It is not publicly known what offers or counter-offers he is discussing on his current visit to London following talks in Cairo. But a good deal would appear to hinge on his ability to secure a compromise between the extreme of President Nasser's nationalistic demands and the Western insistence on internationalization of the canal.

As of now, the compromise might be expected to come to rest near Colonel Nasser's end of the argument. He has survived the Anglo-French threat of military force and the resignation of all his western canal pilots. He still retains the backing of Russia and the Arab states. The expected collapse of canal traffic has not occurred. This week's transit figures showed traffic to be very close to normal, with Egyptian pilots working double shifts to keep up with the demand.

The Egyptian position thus is quite a strong one at the moment. The West, on the other hand, appears to have lost out on its original intentions. Soviet warnings, plus the restraining influence of the United States, have apparently eliminated force as a possible policy. There was too much likelihood of local action expanding into a world conflict to encourage "shooting a passage through the canal." The London conference's 18-to-4 majority in favor of internationalizing operation of the canal likewise has failed to sway Colonel Nasser.

The Indian compromise proposal, involving international consultation rather than supervision, is more likely to form the basis for eventual agreement.

But this will constitute an almost complete victory for the Egyptian leader. He will have seized possession of the canal; he will have imposed Egyptian control of its operation; and he will have raised his prestige immeasurably in the Arab world which he seeks to lead.

In the latter possibility lies perhaps the greatest danger. The West having been challenged successfully by the army colonel, other Arab leaders may seek to duplicate the feat.

The delicate situation throughout the Middle East, where 70 per cent of the world's known oil reserves lie underground, could be thrown out of balance. Oil plays too decisive a part in the world's economy today for such a risk to be contemplated calmly in the West. Arab politics are traditionally of the flash and fire variety; the personal ambitions of leaders and near-leaders can quickly result in inflammatory conditions.

Somehow the West hopes to show the Middle East that President Nasser's sudden coup on the canal must, like that of Premier Mossadegh of Iran before him, lead to increased problems and eventual defeat.

At the moment, the latter might develop from Egypt's economic position. President Nasser has promised his country progress and improvement in all fields. But his cotton crops are mortgaged to pay for arms bought from Russia, his plan for the huge Aswan High Dam has fallen through for the time being, at least, his foreign funds are frozen abroad.

A serious situation could soon develop in the Nile valley, and the effect of this, either as a threat on a fact, may well play a part in the ultimate international agreement on the Suez.

Freedom With the Press?

REPORTS OF A NEW "CRIME" have come from behind the Iron Curtain. A Polish naval cadet, Reuters states, used a newspaper to sweep out a cabin his senior officer ordered him to clean.

The cadet explained that he used the paper because he could find no broom. But that particular issue carried pictures of high communist dignitaries. The cadet was charged with "insulting communist personalities."

Acquitted following trial, the youth was nevertheless expelled from the academy where he studied.

The incident provokes thought on the proper disposal of old newspapers. In this country they can be given to the Salvation Army, which sells them to people who render them again to pulp to make newsprint for future newspapers.

They are also convenient fire-lighters and they have, with no malice aforethought, been used both to wrap lunches and refuse. But what happens to them behind the Iron Curtain?

If they contain pictures of high communist dignitaries, must they be preserved indefinitely? And if they are preserved, what happens to the householders found with closets and basements full of old papers containing former "heroes" when those "heroes" have received the Stalin treatment?

The New Pioneers

LOSS OF THE FAMED X-2 experimental jet plane of the U.S. Air Force has the tragic context of the pilot's death. But in the wider view it takes its place in a long line of fatal efforts to conquer an ever-greater part of the upper air.

From man's first clumsy attempts to fly by strapping bird's wings to his arms, through the early achievements of aerodynamics, to the present-day attacks on speed and altitude, the record is strewn with the deaths of daring men.

After their deaths others take up the quest. From the wrecked and smouldering fuselages of the ruined planes rise still more powerful, speedier aircraft. So it will be as long as human ambition drives mankind to further mastery of our environment.

Pioneering changes its character but it retains the same motivating spirit. And it exacts the same price for each step forward into the unknown.

FROM WASHINGTON

In the Absence of Long Range Policies

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S reputation as a peacemaker was won, as I tried to show in a recent article, in the Far East. There, instead of war on three fronts—in Korea, the Formosa Strait and Vietnam—there is now a truce. It rests on compromises which involve the partition of Korea and of Vietnam, and the containing of Nationalist China in Formosa and a few off-shore islands. The President's special contribution to this truce is that he has made the concessions on which these compromises rest acceptable in the United States, especially to the right wing of the Republican Party, and he has cleared his concessions of the charge that they constitute appeasement of Communist China.

Lippmann

Forced Halt

The Far Eastern truce is not a peace settlement, or even an approach to a peace settlement. It is an armistice in which both sides, China and its smaller allies, the United States and its smaller allies, have stopped fighting on lines beyond which neither can advance without a big bloody and dangerous war.

In the Middle East the President has also been standing for the prevention of war, and in playing his part there he is following the same basic pattern as in the Far East. This is to make acceptable—this time to Britain and France—the best compromise obtainable without the risks of war.

Once again, in the Middle East as in the Far East, his objective is a modus vivendi, an arrangement to avoid immediate trouble and not a policy which looks towards a settlement.

In a just estimate of President Eisenhower as a peacemaker, one would have to say, I think, that his specialty has been the making of compromises to stop hostility and to prevent hostility from breaking out.

Nothing Significant

But neither in the Far East nor in the Middle East has he done anything significant to form policies which are for the long term—what, for example, is to be the future of the two Koreas and the two Vietnams and the two Chinas, and how in the Middle East are we to work out a relationship with the Arab world which can endure?

In the absence of long range policies which look towards the settlement of great issues, the mere prevention of war—desirable as that is in itself—results in a kind of erosion, the giving up of one thing after another in order to avoid trouble.

Expensive Money

YOUR editorial "Growth and Municipalities" and Reeve Murlison's address to the Rotary Club should arouse the interest of all community minded citizens in the Greater Victoria area on the many problems facing the lower levels of government.

As you state, the "traditional sources of revenue—property, licence and business taxes arising from growth—come slowly" to the municipalities while the federal and provincial revenues are almost immediate.

In Saanich the situation is keenly acute. The municipality has experienced such rapid growth that it has suddenly plunged the corporation into a sea of financial expenditures for services far beyond its capacity to pay.

Our main problem is the financing of sewers, drainage and roads and the ability of the taxpayers to pay for these services and, as you state, the many other important services to people, schools, hospitals, welfare, police and fire protection over which we have no direct financial control.

Sooner or later our higher levels of government will have to face the issue of securing cheap money for the municipalities as well as increased grants-in-aid.

Losses

A prime example of our financial difficulties, like other municipalities, occurred when a few years ago we took a loss of $233,478 on our sewer bond issue and only recently we suffered a further loss of $20,000 on our water works bond issue. If these bonds received the guarantee of our provincial government we would have much better bids.

This would be no great departure from the present policy as our provincial government now guarantees our school board bonds and that of village municipalities.

It is obvious the municipalities cannot go on indefinitely competing in the open bond market. It is true the present government has been endeavoring to help the municipalities. However, there is a pressing need for a "second look" at all government levels to determine financial responsibility. In Saanich, because of the lack of heavy industries, the tax burden falls largely upon the homeowners.

Mr. Carl Goldenberg, eminent municipal consultant, may have a partial solution when he states, "To avoid unfair municipal competition for industry and to promote its decentralization, consideration may have to be given to a more drastic change involving removal of industries from municipal taxation and placing them on the provincial tax roll, the entire revenue from the tax to be distributed by the provincial government among the municipalities on the basis of an acceptable formula."

Schools

In the matter of schools: It has been stated that in Canada another 25,000 new classrooms will be required in the next six years. In the Greater Victoria area, the taxpayers are faced next year with a $3 million expenditure for new schools and additions to existing schools. This alone and any other future school expenditures will create an extremely serious situation especially in Saanich, as it will limit, if not rule-out further expansion of much needed municipal services. The losses sustained by municipalities by reason of low bids on bond issues cannot continue under present conditions.

Our people are demanding more and more services and less taxation which is becoming increasingly difficult for the municipalities to provide. It has been the contention of the lower levels of government that the senior governments are not contributing enough towards the municipal governments. We are the children of their creation and therefore it is essential that the best possible relations exist between them.

Three-Way Conference

Local government is big business. It has been stated they spend over a billion dollars per year in Canada. This is more than is spent by our three largest provinces, B.C., Quebec and Ontario. It seems to me that a federal-provincial-municipal conference is required to iron out our financial responsibilities and to consider the plight of the municipalities. Reeve Murlison's remarks and your editorial should help to bring to the attention of our taxpayers and our federal and provincial governments the plight of the municipalities regarding their finances and the difficulties we are faced with.

ARTHUR ASH,
Reeve of Saanich.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Two Developments

The historians may well say, I think, that under Eisenhower, and because of his prestige with the American people, this country has learned to accept two momentous but unpalatable historic developments. One is the emergence of Red China as the leading power in eastern Asia. The second is the recognition of Soviet Russia as the great power in the Middle East.

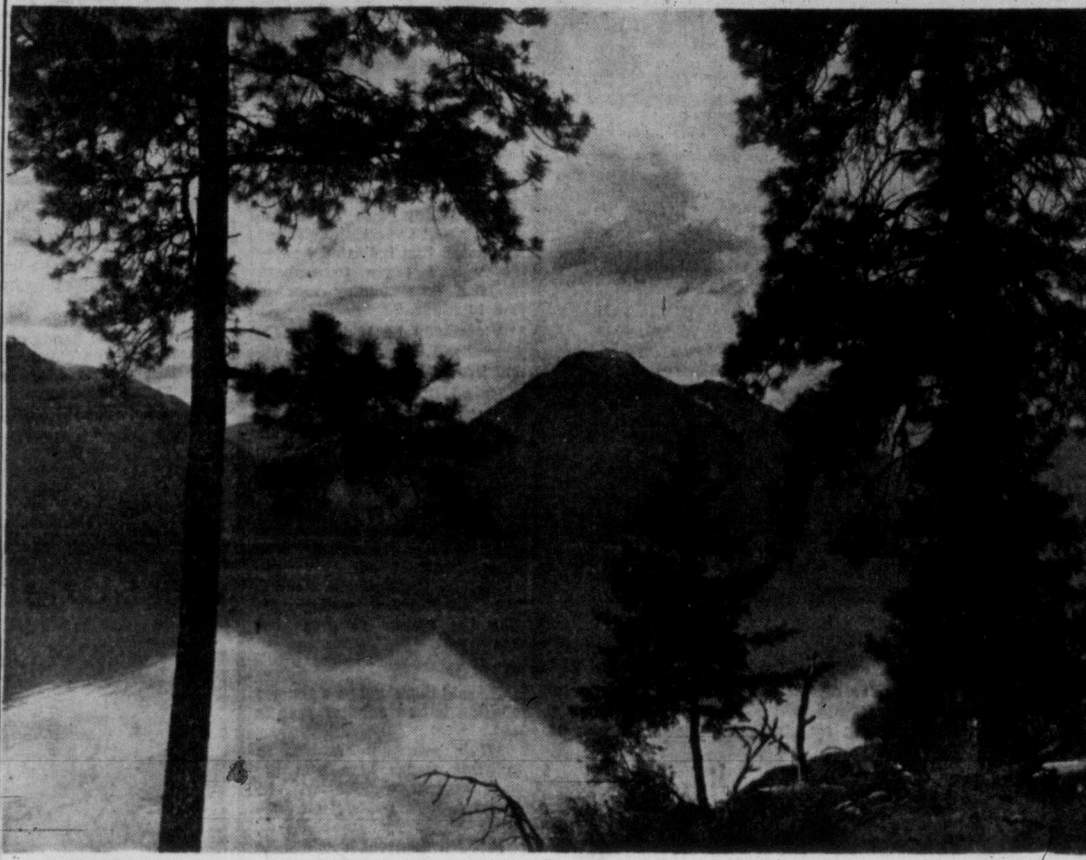

Two Developments

I do not myself think that any President could have prevented these two developments, or that there would be any profit or advantage or chance of success in resisting them irreconcilably. What worries me is that we are accepting them, not with some long view of the realities and of the future but because we cannot think of any way to stop them.

We have no big objectives except to avoid trouble. We do not have, therefore, a policy which corresponds with the new situation, and what we are really doing is to improvise and to muddle through.

Rock 'n' Roll: Is a Remedy Needed?

Written for the Victoria Daily Times by Gerard Fay, London Editor of The Manchester Guardian

THE paid newspaper moralists, the talkative magistrates, the warped psychiatrists and the wildcat parsons are today's British equivalents of the wowers who used to drive H. L. Mencken to distraction. They have been having a splendid time lately because since the American film "Rock Around the Clock" appeared in our cinemas there has been a slight wave of slight violence moving around the country. There has been some living in the aisles, in one or two theatres seats or carpets have been damaged and in the appropriately named Manchester Gaiety the staff and elder patrons were doused with water from a hosepipe skilfully wielded by teenagers who, if they ever volunteer for civil defence duties, will make first class firemen.

Fay

Still Twitching

When asked to desist some of the jing youngsters have been ill-disciplined enough to refuse: when removed by force they have continued to twitch in the streets outside and some have been carted off in Black Marias to turn up in the magistrate's court next morning.

One policeman was quite badly hurt at the Elephant and Castle; one teddy boy (with a previous conviction on his record) has been jailed for six months at Reading.

They sound pretty quiet, these misdeeds of our rhythmic youth, compared with what's recently been happening in Germany (without benefit of the rock 'n' roll beat) where fighting rather than living in the streets seems to be the favorite pastime of the half grown.

And unless we fell for exaggerated reports it seems also that rock 'n' roll had more serious repercussions in North America than it has had here.

I've been watching the development of the so-called riots from the beginning and have still not abandoned the idea that they must have begun with a gentle nudge somewhere from some publicity man; he may now be feeling like the sorcerer's apprentice, but one complaint I have not heard about "Rock Around the Clock" is that it has emptied the movie houses.

Adults' Fault?

It soon became clear, however, that the proper study of rock 'n' roll should be directed at the adults rather than the adolescents. There has been some hooliganism all right, some rudeness, some offensiveness, some slight disobedience of the law. The reaction almost everywhere has been either to send for the police or for the psychiatrist.

Neither seems to be the helpful solution. The best answer I've heard was given by a youth who ought to go far in the entertainment world, unless he proves to be too intelligent.

He was being interviewed on his reactions to rock 'n' roll and put up the perfectly sound suggestion that "Rock Around the Clock" ought to be shown in dance halls rather than in cinemas where there are all those rows of seats to get in the way of the jivers.

Like Newton

This puts him in the same class as Newton who drew the right conclusion from a falling apple, or as the practical genius who came across a crowd of engineers and other "experts" trying to release a double-decker bus which was stuck under a railway bridge. "Why don't you try letting the air out of the tires?" was his devastating question.

For clearly whatever it is in the youngsters which reacts to boogie-woogie and such crude rhythms is something that needs expression rather than suppression.

And how does it differ from the demon that was struggling to be released from my own generation when we shook ourselves and our elders by adopting the Charleston and the black bottom; or from our grandparents who shocked their elders with the polka and even the can-can, which was not originally just a night club leg show but was danced by men and women in the cafes of Paris and even now and then in the streets.

The rock 'n' roll fashion will pass, like all other crazes do and a lot of people will wonder why they were ever foolish enough to think that help was needed either from policemen or psychiatrists.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

When We Rode Through the Singing Wind

By GUS SIVERTZ

ON THE top of the hill stand two bareheaded boys, their faces in the windstream of a boisterous autumn day, their eyes alight with the sheer and inexpressible joy of simply being alive. Maple, alder and oak leaves turn themselves inside out as they wave a frantic and hurried farewell to the trees and scurry away in the flow of the wind. For it flows like a vast invisible river with wood scents mingled with the salt of the great Pacific Ocean which gave it birth. The leaves seem to be in such a hurry.

spinning end-over-end in their flight as though to say: "Come, it's getting late, late and there is so much yet to do."

But of course there is nothing for them to do but to flutter to the earth and there give themselves to become more earth. And because they were just silly leaves they scurried along their brief path almost as foolishly as men who seem impelled by the same breathless urge to hurry, hurry, — for all their days.

These thoughts were not in the minds of the two boys on the hill for they were very serious boys like all youngsters—girls and boys—who are "just going on seven." They were serious because they were at play.

And it was a long time ago; more than fifty years ago and the hill was not a very great one unless you made it so in your mind.

Exciting Messages

The boys stood a long while in the wind because they liked to feel it pressing against their bodies, whipping through their tousled hair and carrying on its bosom all sort of exciting messages.

It was a "singing wind" and the song it sang this day was of great men who did great deeds. And that is precisely what the boys were about when they suddenly turned and looked off with a queer, stiff-legged and jerky trot. Their left arms were held stiffly and slightly bent at the elbows while in the right arms willow withes swept through the air decapitating thistle tops and tall weeds.

They must have looked like sufferers from some form of St. Vitus dance to any passing adult.

Another boy would not have been misled into such a misconception. He would have seen at once that these were two doughty knights riding forth to seek high adventure.

That slightly bowlegged, snub-nosed, freckled faced kid was Sir Launcelot and it was no mean task to hold his great charger in check with one hand while his trusty sword arm flashed like quicksilver in the sun as it severed some villain's head.

They were fortunate indeed, these carefree boys growing up amidst wide fields, woods, flowers and, never far away, the friendly sea. But it is doubtful that either could have put into words the wonderful things they found to do every glorious day of their lives.

I have said that the wind this day was a singing wind and yet it did not sing audibly; it was rather that it seemed to engulf everything within itself and the total impression was that of sound—the sound of merry singing—that was of a piece with the land of make-believe in which little boys and girls lived and could not share even with their mothers and fathers.

The concerns and anxieties of grown-ups seemed out of all proportion to the seeming unimportance of what they did and a child's world of pure moonshine appeared vastly better and infinitely more interesting.

Because, if we did not understand much of what our elders spent their days in doing, we thoroughly understood what other children were about. We could see at once that the boy coming sideways and crab-like down the arena wasn't in the grip of some sort of act; we knew he was mounted on a very skittish racehorse and was able to control his mount only by using the utmost skill and horsemanship.

Vast Drama

In play nothing whatever could stagger our faith and the most clumsy appearing apparatus could fill the stage of whatever vast drama was in progress. If his surroundings were foreign to the part the little boy was playing why he simply "put his eyes in his pocket" and could not ever see anything incongruous or as adventure.

The only real incongruity would be the intrusion of some adult who might say: "Here, don't play with those silly toys . . . just as real as can be."

We would look blankly at what we knew were well meaning but misguided words although it was true enough. There at home lay the lovely toy trains, toy horses, boats and Noah's arks—the Christmas and birthday gifts from Hastie's Fair or from Barber Bros., forlorn and neglected.

Here was a rough cedar lath and a willow switch—a charger and Excalibur, no less—ready at a moment's call. Or ready in less than a moment to be discarded and forgotten as some random provocation looked more intriguing.

Real Pleasures

How lucky we were not to have to sit at home, staring at a glass-fronted box while true-to-life figures flashed through adventures in which we could play a flesh and blood role instead of being vicarious onlookers.

With a stick and a wand and a singing wind in our hair we could ride endless miles on our roan-flecked steeds to come safely home to supper and no one there would suspect on what great ventures we had been.

Hatred, Ridicule and Contempt

There is something peculiarly distressing in the sight of near relations hammering away at each other in court. In ordinary lawsuits the parties and their witnesses maintain a certain impersonal attitude, but in family cases, emotion is the rule.

Most family legal battles are quarrels about inheritance, and very bitter they usually are. "Who steals my purse steals trash," no doubt, but Uncle George's purse is a very different thing. No fight is so hard fought as the one where family money (by convention always called "My Rights") is at stake.

But let us not get lost in the echoing vaults of the Probate Court. Last week a most unusual family quarrel was dealt with by a Victoria jury—it took the form of a slander action by one cousin to which the other retorted with a libel suit, which to say the least was a refreshing change in the family squabble field.

Lord Chesterfield, in one of his more luminous moments, advised his son to have no truck with women. "The pleasure," he said, "is fleeting; the position ridiculous; and the expense enormous." He must have had interminable family litigation in mind as well.

Readers may recall a book which appeared in the shops last year called "From Coal Mine to Castle."

The critics were not very enthusiastic about it, but still a lot of people bought it for its local interest. It was advertised as a history of the Dunsmuir family. I read it myself, with some difficulty, I must admit.

and can only say that the book to my humble critical faculty was about as interesting as "The Life Cycle of the Pacific Halibut" though not so well written. However, that is neither here nor there. It managed to achieve its niche in literature by being the basis of the curious litigation just concluded.

The author, a distaff descendant of the Hon. James Dunsmuir, sued his cousin, a grandson of this late distinguished gentleman, for slander. The grandson, it was alleged, had gone about stopping the sale of the book by saying harsh things about it, and its author, and so must be made to pay for his temerity. Thus forced to defend himself, he brought a countersuit for libel in respect of some things which were said about himself in the book, and which we, in agreement of the jury which tried the case, feel should not have been said, as they were quite unnecessary to the story. Literary criticism again! Enough.

The not very edifying spectacle of the cousins locked in combat in the Supreme Court came to a close on Wednesday evening, when the poor bemused jury, totally at sea amid the weird niceties of the law, dismissed the slander and awarded damages for the libel; thus arriving at a decision in some mysterious way always seem to do, at a decision with which most right thinking men would agree.

Pity the poor jurymen! Not only do they have to sit all day listening to witnesses being examined and to the partisan speeches of lawyers, till their normal intelligence is hopelessly confounded by informed subtleties; but at the end of this they must pay the closest attention to a judge, who no matter how lucid his powers of exposition can do little more than convince them that the law of defamation is a trackless jungle of woolly thinking and contradictory precedent. How they manage I shall never know. But they always do.

And to the princely sum of $6 per day which a grateful state awards them, no one (except perhaps a jurymen) could object.

LONDON LETTER

Brass Bands in Place

LONDON—English people are going to be given a chance of hearing—how good—or bad—are Canadian brass bands. Harry Mortimer, who is the BBC's brass and military band supervisor, is going out to Australia at the end of next month to adjudicate at the brass band championships there and on the way he will do a tour of Canada. With the help of the CBC he will make recordings of brass band music, including Salvation Army and youth bands, in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Montreal and Vancouver. Later, these recordings will help to fill in air time on the BBC.

Reyburn

I don't know what sort of a hearing brass bands get in Canada, but here, thanks to the BBC, one is constantly exposed to that particular brand of music. It seems that whenever the BBC is stuck for a way to fill in an odd half-hour or so, they stick in a theatre organ or a brass band. That's fine, as far as people who like brass bands are concerned. But I think there are a lot of people like me who feel that brass bands are okay if kept in their place.

For instance, over the weekend I happened to be in Croydon and with an hour or so to kill on the Sunday afternoon I was having a stroll around the town. Any hour or so of a Sunday afternoon that gets killed in Croydon has a slow and lingering death, believe me.

Having looked at the windows of the closed-up shops on the main street and viewed the blossoms in the minute park in the middle of the town, I felt I had about exhausted the entertainment possibilities when, in the distance, I heard a brass band. It turned out to be a Salvation Army band, with banners flying, coming down the main street.

Quite involuntarily I found myself joining the cluster of people who were following it. Unless one has pressing business elsewhere, this is an automatic reflex and I think it is the great thing about brass bands. No matter what age you are and no matter how shockingly they may play, they're irresistible. You cannot help but get a lift from hearing a band pounding out a march as they swing along.

That is as it should be, because it is their primary function—to provide music out-of-doors. I am a 100 per cent enthusiast for brass bands at parades (military or otherwise), at football matches and at other such outdoors functions where you either have a lot of noise or not be heard at all. It is when they move indoors that I part company with them.

WORLD'S WEEK

Holy Land Battle—Suez—Spy Scare

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A young Israeli woman olive picker at work near the Jordanian border was shot dead one day this week.

Two nights later a brigade of Israeli soldiers swept across the border in a bloody reprisal raid that lasted seven hours.

This eruption of Holy-Land violence overshadowed the tense situation surrounding neighboring Egypt and the Suez Canal. Up to 130 killed was the casualty figure given for the Israeli-Jordan fighting.

In New York, Secretary-General Hammarskjöld of the United States conferred urgently with representatives of the two sides. If peace were not promptly restored, he said, he would bring the problem to the Security Council.

SUEZ DISPUTE

Meanwhile, in New York, the Security Council tackled the Suez situation. In the preliminary skirmishing on procedure, the U.S. cast the deciding vote in favor of hearing an Egyptian charge that Britain and France, by their actions in the Suez crisis, had threatened world peace.

But before this comes up, the British-French case against Egypt's seizure of the canal will be heard. That probably will be late next week.

British and French leaders appeared pessimistic on chances of achieving their Suez aims through the Security Council, where Russia will be able to exercise the veto.

Prime Minister Eden and Premier Mollet met in Paris to work out a common policy in the UN debate.

In voting to hear Egypt's charges, the U.S. emphasized it is not backing them but just wants to hear both sides.

TITO'S FLIGHT

Marshal Tito hates flying, and the diplomats have been as busy as bees trying to figure out what prompted the Yugoslav dictator to take off suddenly and secretly for Russia in the company of Nikita Khrushchev, secretary-general of the Soviet Communist party.

T. and K. were already on the sunny shores of the Black Sea before the world heard they had left Belgrade, where Mr. K. had been visiting, supposedly on holiday. That was the explanation given also for Mr. T.'s visit to Yalta. But the buzzing chancelleries gave it out that something big was brewing.

One story was that Khrushchev is in a jam with his co-chieftains and Tito is trying to help him out. Premier Bulganin and Foreign Minister Shepilov also are holidaying at the Black Sea resorts.

CHESS AND SPIES

The RCMP clerk and the Russian diplomat enjoyed their games of chess at the civil service chess club in Ottawa. Often they got together for drinks.

Last spring the clerk, James Stanley Staples, confided to an RCMP acquaintance that his new Russian friend was asking leading questions about operations and aircraft at Ottawa's Rockcliffe air station where Staples worked.

Staples was questioned and warned against his association with the Russian. Soon afterwards he was dismissed. Two weeks later, on July 12, Gennadi F. Popov, second secretary at the Russian Embassy, was ordered out of Canada.

Until this week, when the story came to light, the government kept mum. Staples, 30, insists he reported all conversations to the RCMP.

BALLET AND HATS

When visiting Russian dancer Nina Ponomareva didn't show up in a London court to answer shoplifting charges, she almost deprived thousands of ballet lovers of a visit by Moscow's Bolshoi Ballet—and almost set back Covent Garden opera house for a stiff financial loss.

Irked members of the company said they'd call off the London performances unless charges against Nina were dropped.

But this week Moscow officials said the ballet company will fill the engagement.

And the charges against Nina, who is hiding in the Russian Embassy in London, will stand. The British government informed the Russians the courts are independent and can't be told what to do.

LONG DISTANCE

In London's Lancaster House, Britain's postmaster-general Dr. Charles Hill picked up an ivory telephone. At Ottawa, Transport Minister Marler also was ready at a phone, and so was Cleo F. Craig in New York. Craig is chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The three-way conversation inaugurated the world's first ocean telephone cable and brought to reality a 25-year-old engineering dream. The cable cost $42,000,000 and will carry voices as clearly as a local call. It replaces a radio-telephone system subject to delay, fadeout and distortion.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By DINAH KERR and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: "Evangelist Tom Rees says there's an appalling lack of interest in the church among Canadian young people. What is the answer in your opinion?"

Smith

Mrs. George Smith, 1732 Foul Bay Road: "There should be more teenage meetings for dancing and discussions, organized by church groups. If church people took more interest in their entertainment, teenagers would be more likely to join a church group."

Betty-Gene Keetch, 31 Moss Street: "Somebody in the church aged about 20, not an old fogey, should organize a group. There's nothing to do—no wonder teenagers roam the streets. If they had something to do—not a prayer meeting or anything like that—teenagers would be more interested in the church."

Freeland

Bob Freeland, radio announcer, 3396 Salsbury Way: "I believe there is a lack of interest, because the churches have retained a very antiquated approach to people. Education should extend to spiritual instruction. Oratories and gloomy edifices are not in keeping with the modern age. If the clergy changed its approach, it would attract more young people."

Ken Barnes, firefighter, 1774 Adanac: "I belong to the young people's group at St. Alban's Church. We've tried everything to get teenagers interested—bowling, swimming and dancing. We have the same group we've had for two years and we can't get any more. I don't know what can be done about it."

Easton

Mrs. Edward Easton, 3521 Doncaster: "I agree with Mr. Rees. As far as doing anything about it, I don't know what could be done. I think Tom Rees might have the answer. I've been to one of his meetings and he's wonderful."

Bill Hughes, salesman, 1161 Bewdley: "Only thing I can see that would alleviate the situation is for the churches to extend their recreational program by pushing farther into such fields as Boy Scout and Girl Guide groups."

BIG WHEELS IN COLLEGE SPORT

One of the aims of the recently-integrated Victoria College-Normal School will be to establish the college as a strong contributor to the local sports scene. Entrusted with the job of organizing and running the sports program will be men's and women's athletic directors Stew Smith, local rugby and lacrosse star, and Sue Burnett, one of B.C.'s best sprinters. (Times Photo.)

College Athletics Getting a New Look

A new leaf has been turned over in the history book of Victoria College, and from a sports-wise point of view, the pages now present a clearer and more interesting chapter. With the amalgamation of the college and normal school this year, athletics are getting the new look.

Chief among the reasons for this face-lifting job, besides the doubled enrollment, is the organization of the college sports council. For the first time in the history of the school, all athletics will come under the direct control of this co-ordinating body.

Under the direction of Professor Hugh Farquhar, former head of the normal school athletic program and organizer of the Inter-High School Boys' Sports Council, college sports organization will be governed by student representatives Sue Burnett and Stew Smith.

One member of each major team in the school will be elected to the governing body.

The main objective of the new council is to provide "a well-balanced sports program with as wide participation as possible." At the same time emphasis will be placed on strong representative teams.

The strength of this program lies in a wealth of high-calibre athletes and a strong coaching staff.

Well known to Victoria sports fans are the two student leaders, elected by their classmates last spring.

Sue Burnett has made a name for herself that is recognized by all track and field fans as one of the city's top-notch woman sprinters.

Smith is already a seasoned veteran of the English rugby wars having hooked and employed his educated toe in the service of Victoria's Crimson Tide last year. Because of a broken ankle sustained in lacrosse, Smith will be unable to play on the college team until November.

However, there is a promising crop of freshmen turning out to practise with high hopes of securing positions on one of the two representative units.

Vikings will be coached by Prof. Farquhar, former coach of Oak Bay High School and Oak Bay Wanderers, and past-president of the Victoria Rugby Union. Assistant coaching chores will be taken over by Smith, with former Victoria High track star Joe Haegert as student manager.

Also under the heading of major sports comes basketball. College will pin its hopes for fame on what promises to be one of the best teams the school has ever had.

With practically all of last year's Vic High Totems, Vancouver Island champions, on the roster, Vikings' chief problem will be to find local competition. Coaching the squad will be junior-high school teacher Bill Garner, city baseball and basketball star.

On the soccer field, Vikings hope to develop a strong team of booters under the tutelage of Prof. Neil Swainson, former Vic High and Normal School soccer coach, and will play inter-collegiate games against Royal Roads and Venture.

On the girls' side of the ledger, college will be represented well in both grass hockey and basketball.

An experienced group of stick wielders will work out under the direction of well-known city athlete Miss Maureen Bray, in an attempt to retain the Evergreen Conference championship won last year.

Miss Bray, holder of the Lower Vancouver Island badminton singles championship, will also take the school badminton under her wing. The girls' basketball coach has not yet been named.

Other sports in which college students will participate this year are the ever-popular bowling and curling clubs as well as cross country and volleyball.

The promise is for "the best yet!" Time will tell.

Brown Heads Curlers, Leagues Co-Ordinated

Commercial curling leagues at Victoria Curling Club have banded together to form the Commercial Curlers' Committee, with Ross Brown as president.

Aim of the committee, composed of two representatives from each league, is to co-ordinate the commercial leagues and to promote and control the annual commercial bonspiel.

The committee has already made one major change in bonspiel rules. Under the new rule, no rink participating may have more than two members of the Victoria Curling Club registered on its team, and one of these members must not be of a higher rating than second in the VCC.

Also passed by the committee is a ruling whereby all members will be registered and issued cards for the coming year.

Assisting Brown on the executive are Hugh Renfrew, vice-president, and W. Snyder, secretary-treasurer. Bonspiel draw committee is headed by Wes Austin, Civil Service League, and Jack Moir, Sunday Commercial League.

In charge of entertainment is K. Elliott, BCE League; Bill Brown, Navy, and Moir. Ben Bonnar, Army, Bob Passmore, Civil Service, and Brown are on the prize committee.

Commercial leagues will begin play Oct. 13. Any teams higher rating than second in the VCC not entered should contact league representatives or the curling club.

"Nobody'll believe it," he added, "but I caught a seventh with a small piece of cheese."

Pro Gridders Open Season On Sunday

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The defending champion Cleveland Browns meet Chicago Cardinals in Chicago Sunday as the National Football League opens its 37th season with a six-game schedule.

In other opening-day games Chicago Bears, a favorite in the Western Conference, visit dark-horse Baltimore; the once-proud Detroit Lions meet Green Bay; New York Giants play in San Francisco against the 49ers; Philadelphia Eagles tangle with the Western champion Los Angeles, and Washington Redskins tackle the Steelers at Pittsburgh.

NFL teams will play 72 regular season games with three Saturday night contests, two on Saturday afternoons and a Thanksgiving Day game listed among the otherwise all-Sunday program. The final, between Washington and Baltimore, is scheduled for Dec. 23, with the championship slated for Dec. 30 in the home city of the Eastern Conference champion.

Commissioner Bert Bell predicts the league will establish an attendance record. Last year, for the fifth straight season, the NFL last season shattered its attendance mark with 2,521,836 fans watching the 72 games, an increase of 15.1 per cent over 1954.

Games will be televised every week.

Beaches Share Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Beaches got back on the winning track in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series Friday night with a 21-8 victory over Rochester Rockets.

It was Beaches' fifth win in seven starts and Rockets' fifth loss in as many games.

The win sent Beaches into a first-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

Wilf, Ted Find Pocket

"You hit 'em in the pocket and they won't fall down!"

Such is the eternal lament of the 10-pin bowler, and this week at Gibson's the chorus was more plaintive than usual as the splits came frequent during league play.

Of course, if you "hit 'em right," as the old adage goes, there would never be any splits or even any single pins to pick off. But bowlers, a grumbling lot, anyway, know it can be done, as follows:

Top score for the harrowing week at Gibson's was turned in by Wilf Smith and Ted Bowcott of Clubb's in the Senior Tenpin League. Both rolled 222 in their second games.

Con McBeth managed a 215, while Roy Beggs turned up with a final game 213.

High three went to Bowcott with 568, while McBeth had 567, and Len Murrant, 560. Other creditable triples were posted by Wilf Smith and H. Hazzard, with 557 and 554, respectively.

Les Scott and Les Obers shared top singles in the Commercial 10-Pin League with 215's. A 212 went to Jack Hobby, while Alex Quinn, bowling his first league game, had 210.

Things were real horrible in the Mixed Tenpin League. Wilbur Webb with a 205 single and 544 triple, and Jack Hobby with a 541 triple led the men, while Iris Murrant was the best of the ladies with a 507 (175) triple.

In the Women's Major Tenpin League, Gladys Cornthwaite's 491 and Iris Murrant's 180 led the pack.

Over at Strathcona, scores weren't much better. Nick Howard's 227 single and 597 triple was the best of the Senior Tenpin League. Roy Harris turned in a 222. Second high three went to Roy Beggs with 559.

In the little world of five-pinners, Cy Waters led everybody in sight with an 811 triple and 341 single, bowling in Gibson's Commercial Men's Fivepin League.

W. Lee with a 776 triple and 294 single followed in that league. A. Majorki took home a 778 triple.

At Esquimalt the pins were really falling. Earl McLean with 369; Bob McLeod and-

BRUINS SEND AID

Colin Smiles In the Rain

NANAIMO—All the rain that fell on Nanaimo this morning couldn't prevent a few rays of sunshine from glinting on the Victoria Cougar training camp.

The wet walk from the Malaspina Hotel to Civic Arena seemed shorter for coach Colin Kilburn, thanks to recent developments, headed by the posting of three players to the Cougars by the Boston Bruins.

The long-awaited help from Bruins finally materialized Friday when Kilburn was advised that Boston was sending Nelson Bulloch back to Victoria and that two former Barrie Flyers Juniors would join the Victoria team.

Bulloch, the rushing defence-man who had a great rookie year with the Cougars last year, scoring six goals and 18 assists, will be a welcome addition to the club this year and with hold-overs Bill Davidson and Bill Dohbyn, provides the club with a strong blueline nucleus.

The two newcomers are wingers George Rainier and Roy Partridge, who have been cut from the Boston training camp.

Kilburn says of Rainier, who played three games for Edmonton Flyers last season, "I've heard a lot of good things about the kid and I know that I'll have a very anxious to get him at Westminister."

"I don't know too much about Partridge, but you don't stay at a Boston training camp for 11 days unless you can show some thing good."

Addition of the three players still leaves one centre spot to be filled. Until such time as another pivot is found, Don Chiupka and Larry Leach will battle for the job.

Another encouraging boost to the training camp has been the quick recovery of the Cougar wounded.

Bruce Carmichael, smashed in the mouth with a stick this week, will be back on the ice Sunday as will Gordy Haworth, a sore back sufferer, and Dohbyn, whose swollen ankles have gone down.

The club did not scrimmage Friday afternoon, dropping the sticks in favor of golf clubs. Wayne Brown shot a 37-40 to win the club tournament.

Mickey Near Bat Title As Ted Goes Six Down

NEW YORK (UP)—Mickey Mantle has the "American League batting crown just about sewed up."

The Yankee slugger hit his 32nd homer in a 7-2 victory over the Red Sox last night, and even though his average dropped a point to .353, Ted Williams, his closest pursuer, skidded two points to .348 when he went hitless in three official trips.

Williams now needs six at-bats in the next two games to qualify for the batting title, but his chances of overcoming a six-point deficit are remote.

Mantle, in quest of the American League's "triple crown"—the home run, batting, and runs-batted-in titles—raised his RBI output to 128, four more than runner-up Al Kaline of Detroit.

By JACK HAND
ST. LOUIS (AP)—The old 1948 refrain of the champion Boston Braves "Spahn and Sain and a day of rain" now gives way to the Milwaukee Braves' jingle—"Spahn and Burdette with two to get."

Warren Spahn, the 35-year-old lefthander whose clutch pitching has kept the Braves in the race during these anxious hours of late September faces St. Louis tonight in another "must" game. Lew Burdette, the early season ace, figures to get the call in Sunday's finale.

The Braves must win their two remaining games to be sure of a tie with Brooklyn if the Dodgers win their three games from Pittsburgh. In case of a tie, the best-of-three playoff will start Monday at Brooklyn.

"My roommate Burdette and I will decide our fate," said Spahn Friday night, piercing the gloom of the Milwaukee clubhouse after the Braves' 5-4 defeat by the Cardinals.

"They used to say Spahn and Sain," joked Spahn. "Now it's Burdette. Look at his uniform No. 33. John Sain's old number. We'll get 'em yet."

Here's the way the race looks at the moment:

Cincinnati got a reprieve with the Milwaukee defeat, too. Idle Friday, the Redlegs would have been expelled by a Braves victory. Now, if they can sweep their remaining two at Chicago, and Milwaukee and Brooklyn each lose two, Cincy will have a tie for the pennant.

In the American, the pennant-winning New York Yankees bopped Boston 7-2 with Mickey Mantle hitting his 32nd home run.

Rain Hurts Italian Net Chances

Postponement Break For Richardson

By CONNIE RYAN
United Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP)—Italy, which has had nothing but bad luck in its tennis invasions of the U.S., hoped for sunny weather today which would enable the U.S. and Italy to begin their postponed Davis Cup inter-zone series.

Nicola Pietrangeli, the Italian ace, was scheduled against lame Hamilton Richardson in the first match Friday, and tall Orlando Sirola against 33-year-old Vix Seixas in the second singles match, but officials postponed the matches until today because of wet courts and a forecast of more rain.

The same ill weather dogged Italy last year, against Australia at Philadelphia, when two days of rain washed out whatever chance they might have had on grass courts. Friday they wanted to play, and their captain, Ferrante Cavarini, insisted the courts were playable, but U.S. Lawn Tennis Association officials decided on the postponement.

It was good luck for the U.S. and bad for Italy, since it gave Richardson a day of rest for his torn tendon in his right foot. Ham insists he can play his usual game, as long as the foot is well-taped. At best, Richardson would be only slightly favored over Pietrangeli, and with his injury it was rated a toss-up match.

Seixas, veteran of Wimbledon and U.S. championships, was favored over six-foot-seven-inch Sirola, who is no gazelle at best and would be almost hopelessly handicapped on slippery courts. The doubles now will be played Sunday and probably will provide a re-match of the Wimbledon round in which Pietrangeli-Sirola beat Seixas-Richardson. The final two singles matches are listed for Monday.

Colwood Golfers Travel to Nanaimo

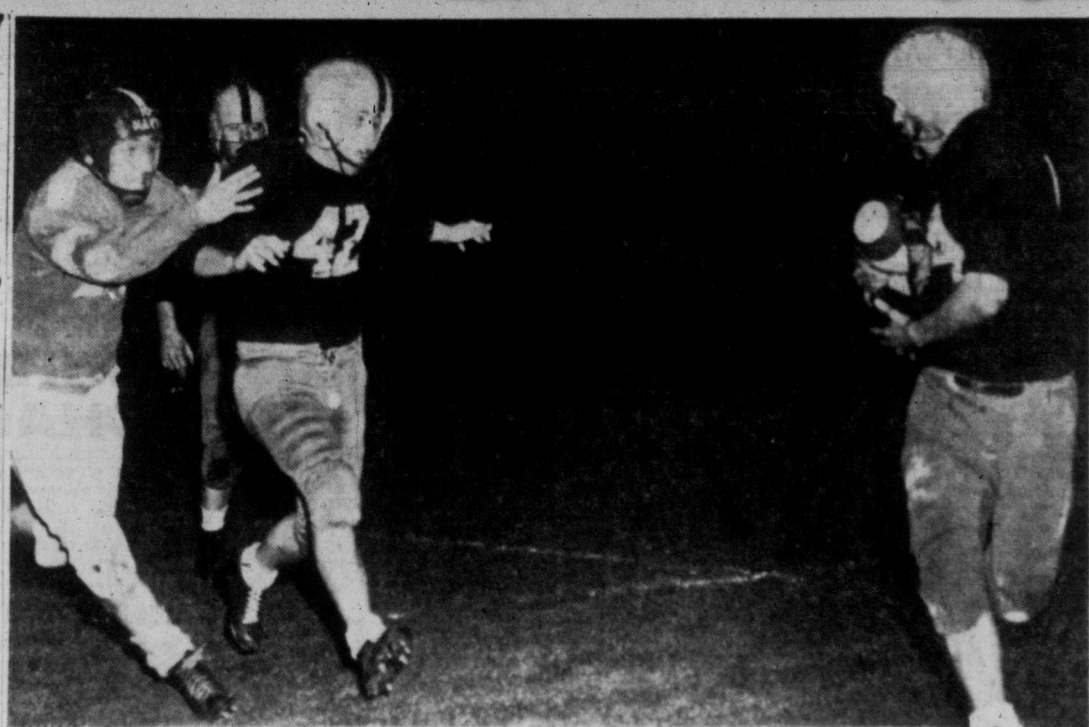

A Colwood Golf Club team will play an inter-club match at Nanaimo Golf Club Sunday morning at 10. Players are asked to arrange their own transportation. Colwood team follows: R. Brannen, J. Eiler, P. Firth, V. Poirier, E. Woods, D. Phair, V. Clark, J. Robertson, E. Dunnett, O. Goodwin, T. A. Harris, W. Allen, W. Flack, J. Brink, D. W. Spencer.

Giardello Scores Smashing Knockout

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Joey Giardello challenged the whole middleweight division today that he was "ready to take on anybody, anytime" and he expected to get some takers, from promoters impressed with his fifth-round knockout of second-ranked Bobby Boyd in the Friday night TV fight. Giardello laid the hitherto classy Boyd on to the canvas twice, once in the first round and again in the fifth, before finishing him with a right cross for the full count of 10. Boyd, who had been the 2-1 favorite suffered broken bridge work and a lost molar and was spitting blood. He was x-rayed for a possible broken jaw. Giardello, forgetting some of his slugging tactics, worked efficiently, and doggedly in tracking the high-speed Boyd, who couldn't match Giardello's heavy artillery. The victory was Giardello's fifth straight. He has won 13 and lost two since returning to the ring eight months ago.

'Never Disappointed' ---That Was 'the Babe'

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Aside from her devoted husband, George, probably nobody knew the real Babe Didrikson Zaharias better than Fred Corcoran, her manager, friend and admirer. Corcoran, who blends a small boy's hero worship with acute business acumen, also handles the business affairs of Ted Williams. It was Williams who heard first of the Babe's passing and notified Corcoran. "Babe and Ted had a mutual admiration for each other," Corcoran said. "She was fond of him, as he was her type. They both had that electricity. I recall when she gave a golf exhibition at a ball park, and posed with Ted, he with a golf club and she with a ball bat. It was a double header, and Williams got six hits in seven at-bats. "Afterward she told him: 'You didn't have a perfect day, son.' That was the Babe. Nothing short of perfection would do." Corcoran arranged her first golf tour of New England in 1934. In 1947, soon after she had become the first American to win the British women's amateur golf championship, she called Corcoran from a New York hotel and asked him to join her and George for breakfast. "I joined them," Corcoran recalls, "and the first thing Babe said was: 'We're going to turn pro, and want you as our manager.' Everything

Pirie Says England Okay, But...

LONDON (Reuters)—Track ace Gordon Pirie has turned his back on Britain and is emigrating to Australia because he wants to make more money.

The 25-year-old distance runner who last week married track star Shirley Hampton, said he will have "a look around" in Australia while training for the Melbourne Olympics.

"I have absolutely no complaints about the running side of my life," the 3,000-metre record-holder declared before leaving Thursday for Australia. "My reasons for emigrating are because there are so many more opportunities to save money and earn a living out there."

Jack Crump, secretary of the British Amateur Athletic Board, said no arrangements had been made for Pirie to return to Britain with the other British athletes after the Olympic Games. Crump described Pirie's decision not to return as "firm but not irrevocable."

English Cricket Star Succumbs

LEICESTER (AP)—Maurice Tomkin, 37-year-old professional cricketer and footballer, died Thursday night. Tomkin had an operation a week ago after complaining of pains in his back. Charity Race Meet At Western Sunday Car-racing fans will get one more chance to see the cars in action at Western Speedway this season. A special charity meet is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. with at least 30 cars expected to be on hand. Club members will take up a collection at the gate and the concession stand will be open. Gross gate receipts from Sunday's meet will be turned over to Mrs. Roy White, widow of the late Roy White, who was killed recently in a rock slide on the Malahat. White was connected with racing clubs in the Victoria area for several years and held the position of starter at Western Speedway during 1954. The money will be used to further the education of Glen and Holly White who are in grade school. The meet will be jointly staged by the VTRA association and the BCASA club and will be a combined stock car and big car show.

Navy Went 'Boom' Drake's Went 'Phfft'

Navy 21, Drakes 13

By DENNY BOYD

Oak Bay Drakes, who exploded to resounding victories in their first two games, fizzled out like a wet fire-cracker Friday night when they ran into a Navy club with a shorter fuse and a higher grade of explosive.

Undefeated leaders of the Victoria Intermediate Football League when they strode into Athletic Park, Drakes slunk away late last night humiliated by a spunk-initiated 21-13 beating handed them by a fired-up Navy club.

Navy's come-from-behind victory (they trailed, 6-0 at the half), not only knocked the props from Drakes' unbeaten streak but shot the sailors into a first-place tie in the league standings, each club now having two wins and a loss.

Although they were beaten in most of the statistical departments, Navy was not beaten in two places where it counted—in the head and in the heart. The sailors played clever, aggressive football, capitalized heavily on Drake fumbles and penalties and did their scoring on the boldest type of gambling.

On the other hand, Drakes, baptized "a bunch of old women" by coach Fred French following the game, started off well in the first half but deteriorated in the second half, were unable to come up with any big plays when it counted and were guilty of mental as well as physical errors.

Rick's Rambles Not Enough

The lone consistent standout on the Drake team, and he was the individual running star of the entire game, was workhorse fullback Rick Ginn. Bashing through the Navy line like a bowling ball gone wild, Ginn was not able to beat the Navy club all by himself, but he gave it a big try.

Drakes twice penetrated inside Navy's 20 in the first half but were unable to score. However, late in the second quarter, Ginn took the ball through the middle of Navy's tough line five straight times to give the Oak Bay club a first down on the nine. With the Navy line drawn in to stop another plunge, quarterback Tom Sanregret faked a handoff, straightened up and drilled a short pass to Gordy Hemingway in the end zone for the touchdown. The convert failed and the half ended with Drakes ahead, 6-0.

A nervy gamble by Navy quarterback Chuck Thomas in the third quarter changed the entire complexion of the game. On a third and six play, Thomas declined to punt and took the ball himself on an option play to the right. He skirted the end, reversed his field when running room opened up down the middle and streaked 50 yards to a spectacular major which Doug Brown converted to make it 7-6.

Drakes tried the same gamble later in the third quarter but their ball carrier fumbled on the third down play and Navy recovered for a first down on the Drake 35. Three Drake penalties and two keepers by Thomas took the ball to the two and Jerry Porter cracked over left tackle to score. Brown again converted to make it 14-6.

Another Drake fumble in the fourth quarter, recovered by Navy on the Drake 34, set up the sailors' third touchdown. Brown came off the bench to try a field goal but was waved to the sidelines as substitution time elapsed. Unable to go for the field goal, Thomas dropped back to pass and hit Porter with a strike down to the 14. Thomas went to the four on a churning, head-down keeper over tackle and then hit Jim Brown on an apparent touchdown on the next play. The officials ruled Brown was Cliff Barlow, who has acquired a half-interest in the firm, assumes the position of vice-president and general sales manager.

The position of assistant sales manager, vacated by Mr. Barlow, is ably filled by Mr. Jack Harris who has an excellent background of automotive experience.

Gladwell Motors was incorporated in 1946, founded by Harry Gladwell, and became the first distributor in Victoria of the new Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor cars. Since then, Gladwell has kept expanding and the present re-organization will greatly assist in serving this fast-growing area.

The three executives of Gladwell's have just returned from the western dealers' conference of the Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor group in Vancouver.

All three are enthusiastic about the new 1957 METEORS which are due to appear in VICTORIA OCT 3, and will be on view in Gladwell's showrooms. A spectacular change in appearance keynotes the new models... which are lower, longer, more luxurious than ever.

A new Meteor will be introduced, the Rideau 500 Series on the new 118" wheelbase, with horsepower up to 245 and with the most distinctive appearance in Meteor's history.

Make a point of seeing the new style line—AT GLADWELL MOTORS LIMITED—Pandora at Quadra.

Big Iron Ore Project Set For Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Plans for a "very considerable" iron ore development project, involving construction of docks and processing plants in the far north of Quebec Province, have been submitted to the Quebec government, Premier Duplessis announced Friday.

The premier said plans for the development on the northwest side of Ungava Bay have been submitted by Canadian-born steel magnate Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland.

International Iron Ores Ltd., Atlantic Iron Ores Ltd., and Oceanic Iron Ore Co. of Canada Ltd. hold vast tracts of territory on Ungava Bay near the Payson River.

STARTED WITH SUEZ CRISIS

Toronto Stocks Down 8th Straight Week

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The stock markets this week suffered the sharpest decline in four months as five sessions of lower prices plunged the markets into their eighth straight week on the downside.

Although there was nothing dramatic about any of the declines during the five sessions, they were steady and only at the start of the week did any signs of firmness show. The trend of the markets was in the pattern of losing sessions since the end of July when Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Observers said the hesitant performance of the Canadian stock markets in recent weeks can be attributed to several causes, but primarily it must be linked to a policy of credit restraint on the part of monetary authorities and to the resulting conditions of tight money.

The Suez crisis is another factor which is causing a reappraisal by investors. Its impact on the Canadian economy is favorable for the oil industry, which has acquired a new stature as a result of the Middle East situation. The air of uncertainty, however, is making buyers reluctant to step into the market.

The Canadian markets are also suffering from a lack of leadership from Wall Street.

Index losses at Toronto were the heaviest since the week ended in early August, the indices have steadily tumbled. In eight weeks, industrials lost 40 points, base metals 30 and western oils 22. Golds dipped seven points.

Trading at Toronto was the lightest in many weeks with a volume of 17,106,000 for the five sessions against last week's 18,268,000.

Of 825 issues traded during the week, 509 declined while only 134 advanced. Another 182 were unchanged.

Industrial losses were more widespread than in recent weeks with some stocks losing as much as $8.50, such as Aluminum, Alcan, off $2.50, Inco, off $1.50, and S. & W. off $1.50. International Paper, off $3.75 and B.C. Power, off $1.25, were a few of the issues which stood out.

Senior base metals and copper issues took most of the heavy loss; among them, Granduc, down 75 cents and Chibougamau mining 40 cents in copper. International Nickel and Hudson Bay, two of the higher-priced seniors, lost $2.25.

Week's index changes at Toronto: Industrials off 9.52 to 464.67; golds off 1.61 to 79.32; base metals off 1.61 to 230.71; western oils off 4.44 to 157.00.

Week's index changes at Montreal: Banks off 1.06 to 32.13; utilities off 1.8 to 138.4; industrials off 7.6 to 292.9; combined off 5.6 to 241.4; papers off 39.60 to 141.11; golds off 0.36 to 76.63.

Spending of U.S. Consumers Heads for All-Time Record

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—"Sell" may have been the battle cry on Wall Street this week, but Main Street found consumers in a mood to buy.

There were signs, too, of solid strength in other lines of business.

With capacity operations indicated for the balance of the year, steel production topped 100 per cent of capacity for the third week in a row.

As business headed into the final three months of 1956, spending indicated that consumer spending in the fourth quarter will surpass all previous records.

The annual autumn spending surge is under way. Brick fall weather in northern cities brought shoppers flocking to department stores. Where the weather failed to do the trick, shoppers were lured by new styles, new merchandise and vigorous sales promotions.

ing corporation will boost prices of Bendix washing machines starting Oct. 8. Heating oil prices moved higher along the Atlantic Coast. Boosts of three to four per cent were announced for tin cans.

Soft spots in the economy also were apparent. One was the stock market, down $4.90 on the Associated Press 60-stock average at $174.70—lowest since Feb. 15.

Layoffs were announced by some manufacturers of home appliances and farm equipment and the government ended its program of encouraging copper producers to raise their output.

The credit pinch was tight as ever.

But most of the big indicators still pointed higher.

Prices made news again on other fronts this week.

Father Lacombe And Indian Life In Buffalo Days

THE BOLD HEART, by Josephine Phelan; MacMillan. "Arsous-Kitsi-rapi," or the man of god heart, was the Indian name for Rev. Albert Lacombe who went to the wilds as a young Oblate missionary and served the Indians and Metis of the great Northwest for his lifetime—he died in 1916.

Josephine Phelan of Toronto has written her book specially for younger readers, but for people of all ages it is an interesting study of the historical events of the Northwest Territories and of the work done by the "black robes."

Miss Phelan wrote two previous books in the same general field of history, winning a governor-general's award for her study of D'Arcy McGee in The Ardent Exile, and a work for juveniles, The Boy Who Ran Away.

The Bold Heart is a heart-warming account of Indian life in the buffalo days when Father Lacombe first became a missionary and trusted friend to the Indians.

He lived through these days into the new era in the West started by the government purchase of Rupert's Land from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Along with the land transfer came other great changes in the story of the West—the Riel uprising, the transcontinental railway, the second Riel outbreak and the rapid growth of white settlement.

They signalled an end to Father Lacombe's earlier and more preferred life of working among the Indians and Metis of the plains.

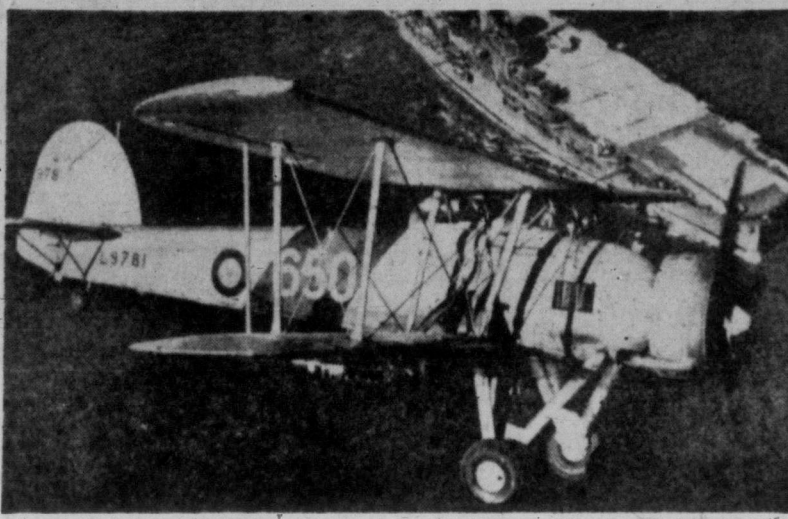

Monsarrat Book Banned In South Africa

PRETORIA (Reuters)—The South African government Friday banned Nicholas Monsarrat's latest book, "The Tribe That Lost Its Head," as objectionable literature.

The book concerns an imaginary island off the southwest coast of Africa under British administration and tells how, with the new chief returning home with an Oxford University education, the tribe awakens to nationalism familiar among other colonial peoples.

Plane preparing to land on Ark Royal. One of several plates illustrating the book.

Fabled Carrier of World War II Met Doom in Sight of Gibraltar

ARK ROYAL, by Kenneth Poolman, The Ryerson Press, Toronto, $5.75, 202 pages.

Pilots of German Messerschmitts who survived the war but still are wondering about the secret weapon looted against them by Ark Royal birdmen will find the answer in this biography of the famed Royal Navy carrier.

Petty officer observers in seaborne Fulmar aircraft were unarmed. When the speedier German planes got on their tails, the Fulmars crews depended more on logic than lead for survival.

"We had evolved a remarkably successful method . . . simply by letting go in the slipstream a handful of Admiralty pattern toilet paper which we kept in the back cockpit . . . The chap following, seeing something coming back at him thought it was pieces of Bismarck in mid-atmosphere, and he got out of the way quickly."

So recalls one of the many real ratings and officers aboard Ark Royal who appear in this forceful, peak to stern bearings book, which traces the ship from her 1937 launching to her sinking by torpedo attack in November, 1941, within sight of Gibraltar.

ELUSIVE SHIP
Mr. Poolman tells the story partly through the lips of the men who sailed in the Ark. His detail of her many engagements shows also a vast research of official records.

He describes the Ark as an elusive, lucky ship, always in the thick of things until finally claimed by the deep Valhalla of fighting men-of-war.

Before she died, Ark Royal had proved to the dubious arm-chair admirals that aircraft carriers would replace the battleship as the navy's Sunday punch.

The pursuit of the Graf Spee, the shunning out of the Luftwaffe over Norway, the sorry business of thrashing the Vichy battleships at Oran and her tangle with the Bismarck in mid-atmosphere, are all bits of history in which Ark Royal starred.

But what makes the best reading are the personal episodes that show the spirit of the men who sailed in her and flew above her.

Like the midshipman who rode the rear cockpit of a Swordfish while an Italian dive bomber peppered the air around him.

The Italian ran out of ammo, but knowing the Swordfish's guns were fixed fore and aft, he cruised alongside in safety. He found out how wrong he was when the RN observer produced a revolver and took him on with that until he barked away.

In the current trend to sea adventure stories, Ark Royal should find a welcome spot in any man's library.

Pioneering Parsons Were Tillers of Soil

MRS. MINISTER, by Olive Knox, Ryerson Press, Toronto, 190 Pages, $3.75.

The story of any family where there are a number of children contains a wealth of material for an interesting book providing there is a member of the family with sufficient talent to write it. Olive Knox proves she has the requirements with her gay, deeply moving story, "Mrs. Minister," which she wrote "for the sheer fun of later recapturing six years of our life in the United States."

For this reader especially, "Mrs. Minister" was a delightful experience. It brought a flood of memories of horse and buggy days on Vancouver Island.

It recalled the young city-raised girl who came from England to join her pioneer parson husband who, first from necessity in order to increase the slender stipend then paid to ministers, and later from love of country life, combined farming with clerical duties as does the husband in "Mrs. Minister."

The book revived memories of life as one of five of a family at South Wellington, St. Luke's, St. Stephen's, Holy Trinity and St. Mary's in Saanich.

PARSON'S 'BRATS'
One thing must be common to all parson's families. The children of Olive Knox's engrossing book had no desire to be classed as the minister's kids and were ready to prove they could do as much mischief as any other kids.

In our own family we hated anything that would isolate us as "the parson's brats" or any move towards making us cherub examples for the rest of the children of the parish to emulate.

There were advantages to country life. There was always a horse to ride and animals to love; musical evenings, intimate friendships, wonderful horse parties in country homes.

But with Mrs. Minister's family as with our own, it was a happy day for all when the move was made to city dwelling and a city vicarage.

It is in a spirit of nostalgia that Ontario-born Olive Knox writes her entrancing book. There is no over-emphasis on piety as the title might indicate. The author has a wonderful gift of humor and characterization. She has not confined her story to the commonplace incidents of family life. There are tragedy and adventure as the family faces a blizzard, prairie fire and other perils of homesteading.

It is a beautifully written book which will have a great appeal to all readers and is not by any means limited to parson's families.

STAMP CORNER

BY REG NAIRNE

East Germany issued a stamp recently to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the death of Robert Schumann, the famous musician. Some bars of one of his compositions were included as part of the design—at least, such was the intention.

But after the stamp had been on sale for two days it was suddenly realized that the piece of music was not Schumann's at all, but was actually written by Schubert!

The stamps were immediately withdrawn and all stocks destroyed. Whether those which were sold before the error was discovered will be scarce remains to be seen.

In a country with the population of East Germany even two days' sales would be considerable, so the stamp will probably not be too rare.

The changeover of watermarks on the current stamps of Great Britain from Tudor crowns to Edward crowns, has now been pretty well completed.

Trying to sort out the two types makes one thankful indeed that only the stamps of the mother country are affected, for it is almost an impossible task to distinguish between them; in fact, it is only by getting specimens with part of the sheet margin attached that one can be sure of them.

The blank tabs do show up the watermarks clearly enough to assure correct identification.

A word of warning—it is not safe to use benzine for detecting the watermarks on these stamps, for the colors run badly as soon as they come in contact with this usually dependable fluid.

ART IN REVIEW

By ROBERT H. SAVERY

Grotesque Element in Painting Employed to Intensify Emotion

Why has the macabre emotion in the grotesque held such an attraction for artists? A good question and one hard for the casual observer to understand.

First, the writer would wish to be perfectly clear that grotesque does not mean caricature. This latter is entirely different for its humor is the fun in art.

The grotesque is a kind of heroic ugliness—a shadow as of the Hunchback of Notre Dame, fitting across the Galerie Royal, a pathetic figure of human suffering against a background of unbridled humor. So, even tragedy, if it is a work of true art ends in a liberation from sorrow by the transforming power of the artist's creative imagination.

The brilliant and versatile Goya was a master at the portrayal of lyricism and comic verse well seasoned with pathos and satire. So, also the works of Hieronymus Bosch and Pieter Brueghel which present one characteristic common to all—the spirit of a danse macabre with the exaggeration and oddness of a deliberate discord between the apparent subject and the pictorial methods.

The somewhat spectacular exploitation of fantastic elements by the modern surrealist Salvador Dali gives the writer the same reaction.

DURER AND GRECO
The great Greco used a sense of the grotesque in his most beautiful creations to increase the emotional excitement of human despair, the abnegation of self and resignation to fate. Albrecht Durer borrowed largely from the realm of the grotesque to strengthen the emotion he had established by his dominance of the passions portrayed by a penetrating speculative intelligence.

"Blind Beggar," by Francisco Goya . . . "spirit of a danse macabre."

A thoughtful study of the examples from the work of these men will show by its approach that the grotesque in art deeply penetrates and charts the vicissitudes of man's uncertain destiny, and herein lies its appeal to painters who wish strongly to excite the emotions by their presentation.

This use of the grotesque has at its best great possibilities for beauty in line of color or both and offers a wide field for imaginative composition; for by its distortions and deformations it penetrates and analyses the sinister, the weird and tragic in human relations.

INDUCES EMOTION
The artist by the use of such a medium may produce an emotion in the spectator at almost heart-wrenching pathsos for his characters, but at no time through its exaggeration will it approach a debasement to provoke contempt.

The dividing line between beauty and the grotesque is very close when presented by a master hand and this should be stressed, for the grotesque originated by the primitive or incompetent does not fall into the same category, although the educated artist's elimination of nonessentials to his expression may at first glance produce similar results to the casual observer.

Therefore, to appreciate and find a relation between the idea and such a work of art we must analyse the work and seek to completely understand the senses of the artist who produced the work, his feeling and the process of his imagination.

Symphony's Guest All-Round Artist

It is with keener than usual anticipation that we have looked forward to this season's opening pair of concerts which take place Sunday afternoon and Monday evening. At last, we have been able to arrange to let Victoria hear, as soloist, a man who has been for many years the concert-master of one of the world's half-dozen greatest orchestras—and, of course, Canada's foremost—the Toronto Symphony.

It follows that Hyman Goodman is perhaps the outstanding string player currently active in Canada. To have him appear as violin soloist with our Victoria Symphony Orchestra has been our fond wish these many years.

Even now it is only due to a set of fortunate circumstances that our wish can finally be fulfilled.

Mr. Goodman will use, for the first time in public, his newly acquired Guaragnini violin, an instrument of the Stradivarius period and of prohibitive value. We have taken advantage of this unique opportunity in that he will be heard, with orchestra, in two works—the marvellous Bruch concerto, and the Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso by Saint-Saens, which is, of course, the most effective of the shorter violin-orchestra compositions.

How magnificent a fiddler Goodman is, is something you can judge for yourselves. But one might account, in part, for the extraordinary warmth and beauty of his tone by the fact that, while he is a professional in the highest sense, his boundless enthusiasm for music as an art and a craft is still that of an enlightened amateur, in the best sense.

AUTOS TOO

My trust in Hyman Goodman as an artist is complete. I have known, you see, several musicians who, on the face of it, would appear to be very fine indeed; yet they could never quite gain my ultimate approval in that there was missing from their make-up this last stamp of a complete and perfectly rounded personality—namely, a comprehensive interest in and knowledge of motor cars.

In these matters, Goodman's perception is beyond reproach, for he refers to certain car showrooms as the "Rolls-Royce Art Centre." Is it not logical that his understanding of the Bruch Concerto is the deeper for his obvious appreciation of works of art in whatever form?

ORGAN-LIKE

Reference has already been made last week to the opening orchestral work, the Bach Passacaglia and Fugue. This is perhaps the supreme example of architecture in music—a work of incomparable majesty and loftiness. In this work, the orchestra is transformed into a living, 70-piece organ (pipe, not electronic!).

Schumann's aptly-named "Spring" Symphony—music of sunny happiness in the first, third and last movements, and of high, pure and refined romanticism in the second—needs no artificial prop for an excuse to play it—any more than anything of Mozart does during this 200th anniversary year of his birth.

But as this year also happens to be the 100th anniversary of Schumann's death, our performance of his First Symphony may serve incidentally as commemoration of this anniversary.

Eugene O'Neill's autobiographical "Long Day's Journey Into Night," set to open Nov. 7 at the Heien Hayes Theatre, will give you six performances a week, Monday through Saturday evening—no matinees—because of its running time, well over three hours. Performances will begin at 7.30 p.m. Frederic March and his wife Florence Eldridge are co-starred in the new O'Neill drama.

RECORD SHOP

New Version of Brahms' Fourth Rivals Former Top Recordings

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Some first-class records featuring top-notch international artists are scheduled to be released this fall, according to information received from the record world. One of these will include globe-trotter Jose Iturbi, famous Spanish pianist.

Iturbi made news recently by signing a long-term contract with Pathe-Maronco, French subsidiary of Electric and Musical Industries Ltd. of Hayes, England. He now will record exclusively for E.M.I. and his new disc will be released in Canada on an Angel label.

One of Iturbi's records will include music of Mozart, Chopin, Schubert, Granados, Lizar and Debussy. On a second record, he will play three sonatas, the Mozart sonatas Nos. 11 and 12 and the Beethoven "Moonlight."

There seems to be a rivalry among the world's leading conductors to see who can record the best version of Johann Brahms' major works. Whether this is so or not, they have made available his best compositions in several excellent versions. For instance, one symphony alone has been recorded 19 times by different conductors.

A month ago I would have said "Toscanini's performance with the NBC Symphony Orchestra was tops. Today I would choose Herbert von Karajan's version on a new Angel record (32228). I'm not saying this because of his interpretation is first class. In addition the recording is excellent. So, if you are searching for a top performance of symphony No. 4, this is it, in my opinion.

POPS LIBRARY
From the West Coast comes an album, Good Times Jazz "The Bay City Jazz Band," which is pure Dixie.

This combo was inspired by the great work of the Yerba Buena Jazz Band of the early 1940's and follows its pattern. Good work by Everett Farcy on cornet, Al Vavallin on trumpet, Sanford Newbauer on trombone, Roy Gioni on clarinet, Don Keeler on piano, Walt Yost on tuba, Lloyd Byassee on drums and Tito Patri on banjo. Numbers include "Snake Rag," "Arab Strut" and Newbauer's own "Auntie Soshah's Social."

"Simon and Laura"
This superb British comedy has been compared to "The Lavender Hill Mob." "Doctor in the House," "Genevieve" and others of that standard. It is a natural vehicle for the stars who play the parts of a "man-and-wife" team on a B.B.C. Television serial program while "off-stage" they have their own domestic battles and problems to fight out. How this is accomplished will keep you in stitches until the final fade-out. Splendid entertainment.

Dancer Paddy Stone Breaks Long Silence
LONDON (CP)—Winnipeg's Paddy Stone has danced his way through several London musical shows and films without saying a word. Now, at last, he's talking.

In "The Good Companions," a comedy based on J. B. Priestley's novel, Paddy breaks his long public silence, dancing in five scenes and talking—actually talking—in two.

He plays a character he feels is "slightly sordid." "I tried to play him as kindly as possible. I just hope I haven't overdone the kindness," says 31-year-old Paddy, who has seen himself dance on the screen but never heard his own voice.

"That's the part I'm anxiously awaiting," he says, "to see and hear myself."

His role in the Priestley movie is "the dancer who is invited to the dance."

He doesn't hold out too much hope for ballet in films.

"Modern dancing is the thing—and I'd like to form a group of my own sometime."

CONTROL OF WEATHER JUST 10 YEARS AWAY

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—Rear-Admiral George Dufek, leader of the U.S. "deep-freeze" expedition to the Antarctic, predicted Friday that scientists will be able to control the world's weather in 10 or 20 years. He told a luncheon that 60 new weather stations will be set up in the Antarctic to provide information not now available to forecasters. Once they were completed, he went on, it would be possible to forecast the weather six months ahead of time.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Corn Cobs Dependent On Wind Pollination

By JACK BEASTALL

Q.—I planted a row of corn said to be suitable for early maturing in this district, but only two small cobs have developed on more than 50 plants along my fence line. Can you suggest the reason?

A.—This has been a good season for sweet corn as evidenced in the local fall shows. Development of cobs depends on the wind scattering the pollen from the tassels. Better pollination is accomplished when the plants are set in a square instead of a single row, and no overhead watering should be done when the pollen is ripe.

Q.—My house plant of achimenes is full of buds but they do not seem to get any bigger. The plant has been fed, watered and kept in a warm, light room. Is there anything else I may do to make it flower?

A.—Achimenes (known as Cupid's Bower on the prairies) should be in full bloom during August and September. But to get this result, the little tuberous roots should be started into growth about the middle of February. Place them upright in moist sand or peat moss, in

Paint Pointers

Here are a few suggestions for getting the most out of house paint:

- DO—Paint in clear, dry weather, with temperatures at least above 40 degrees.
- DO—Allow primer coat three days to dry in fair weather, four days in humid weather.
- DO—Use paints which chalk freely in white color only.
- DON'T—Apply primer in fall and wait until spring for finish coats.
- DON'T—Paint too frequently. Frequent painting may cause the finish to crack or alligator.

Atomic Energy In Orchard Studied

GENEVA, N.Y. (UP)—Atomic energy in the orchard! Scientists at the Brookhaven National Laboratories on Long Island and at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station here are making a joint study to determine the effects of atomic energy on fruits.

Apples and grapes have been treated with X-rays and bombarded with particles made available by nuclear research at Brookhaven. And, while most of the effects have been harmful, the scientists hope that when fruiting stage is reached, the radiation will bring about certain changes that may prove of practical value in fruit-bearing programs.

RADIATED SEEDS

Under the present program, apple and grape seeds, dormant scion wood of apples and dormant rooted grape cuttings—all exposed to radiation—are grown under gamma rays at Brookhaven, then sent here for observation.

So far, the researchers have found that, for example, buds of apples grown in a gamma field have died, growth has been stunted and abnormal types of leaves have developed.

Buds of Concord grapes growing near the radiation source break later in spring and may produce shoots with leathery, misshapen leaves and no growing tip. In the first seasons, irradiated grape cuttings and scions have shown suppressed growth and distorted leaf and stem patterns, but these usually disappear in the second season growth.

The important thing, however, is the small changes in hereditary make-up of plants by radiation.

Q—Our screen doors have sagged and now scrape against the door sills. Can you recommend a repair?—D.I.

A—If the fault does not lie with loose hinge screws or a similar failure, you can use a device designed to correct door sag. A metal rod equipped with a small turnbuckle, it can be fastened to a door to raise the bottom edge clear of the sill. Screw one end of the device to a face of the door near the bottom on the side opposite its hinges, and the other end as far up on the hinge side as possible. Turn the turnbuckle to tighten the rod and raise the door.

BEASTALL ADVISES

End of Daylight Saving Time Cuts Gardener's Hours Down

This is the weekend we catch an extra hour of sleep, but it also means no more daylight for gardening after supper.

From now on we become weekend gardeners, and there are only five weekends, in October to accomplish all the work.

Harvesting is probably the most important job. Beets and carrots should be lifted as soon as they reach full size for the variety being grown. Left in the ground, the carrots will split and the beets become woody inside. Store both in damp sand.

Parsnips and leeks may be left in the ground and dug over winter as needed. The parsnips will have a better flavor after a few frosts.

Potatoes should be taken up when the tops have browned off. Nothing is gained by leaving them, except maybe a little unwanted disease. Dig on a fine, windy day if possible, so that the tubers dry quickly.

Watch the late varieties of free fruits and pick at the recommended time for the varieties being grown. If in doubt, contact the department of agriculture in the Parliament Buildings or the Dominion Experimental Farm at Saanichton.

Onions should have been harvested, ripened and stored by this date. If still in the ground, dig at once before the rains cause growth to recommence.

LAST CALL

It is very near the deadline for setting out plants of spring

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Carnation layers will now be rooted. The new plants may be severed and planted.

Cuttings of penstemons should be taken now. Place in sand in a cold frame, and keep closed for two weeks.

Continue potting of daffodils, tulips, hyacinths for winter bloom, as soon as bulbs received.

Water sparingly in greenhouse or unheated porch, and only when needed. No water should be sprayed on foliage, benches or floors.

All house and greenhouse plants should be inside now from summering outdoors.

Grapes in greenhouse need a little heat at night, and a dry atmosphere.

Pick all beans of usable size. Beets should be lifted now, and stored.

Spring cabbage may be planted now in firm ground.

Cut down fading perennials, dig, divide and replant borders and beds as necessary. In loose, light soil the plants should be well firmed in. In heavy soil, make moderately firm.

If trees, shrubs are to be planted next month, prepare the ground now, and place stakes exactly where the new arrivals are to be planted.

A high-quality egg, when broken out on a plate, has a high round yolk that is well centered and banded in thick white.

cabbage, and making the last sowing of winter spinach.

Where continuous cloches are used, a sowing of winter lettuce may be made, also radish. They can be coldframe crops as well.

Since the average garden has more discarded vegetation at this season than at any other, it is a good time to start the new compost heap.

Begonias and dahlias are dug as soon as frost blackens the top growth, and gladiolus corms come up from the middle to the end of the month.

Spring flowering bulbs are planted immediately, with the exception of Dutch iris, which are better left until the begin-thus plants should be set out for the spring display and all perennials, trees and shrubs should be planted as they become available. Moving and dividing of perennials already in the garden can be done at once.

This should be enough to take care of the first two weekends, but a good schedule will be needed if we are going to get all the October jobs done before the month ends.

FAMILY NIGHT DRAWS 1,400 TO CATHEDRAL

Final Evangelistic Rally At Arena Sunday Evening

It was family night at Christ Church Cathedral Friday for one of the final evangelistic services to be conducted by England's Tom Rees.

More than 1,400 persons, elderly couples, parents with their children, and teenagers attended the meeting to hear Rees discourse on personal redemption.

Another meeting will be held in the cathedral tonight at 8, and two meetings are scheduled for city churches Sunday afternoon.

Teenagers will meet with Rees in First United Church at 3 p.m., youth leaders and teachers, at First Baptist Church at 4.30.

A final rally will be held in Memorial Arena Sunday at 7.30 p.m. Most churches in the area have cancelled evening services to allow congregations to attend. Doors will open at 6.30. There will be a massed choir.

Speaking at Friday's meeting, Rees told the congregation:

"God does not merely judge us on account of wrong words, thoughts or deeds, but because of this fact—at heart we are sinful, rebellious creatures.

Condemned Already

"My friends, whoever you are, whether you are moral or immoral, if you do not know redemption through Jesus Christ, you are condemned already.

"Sin and unbelief and rebellion are revolting to God.

"It is easy for us to sit back and acknowledge our sins," he said. "It is easy to believe that if Christ died for us, that all is well.

"But the blood which Jesus Christ shed on the Cross does not fully benefit us in personal redemption until His blood is applied to our own hearts, just as the Hebrews struck the blood of a slain lamb above the door to celebrate the Passover.

"Has the precious blood of Jesus Christ been applied to your own heart?" he asked. "Have you asked the Lord, Who died for your sins, to take away your sin?"

Fear in Mind?

"Is there still a lurking fear of the Judgment Day in your mind?"

"God has said 'Where I see the blood, I will pass over.'"

"My dear friends, tonight put your whole trust and faith in the blood of Christ and the promise of God and go home to your room and sleep, not only safe but sure," he said.

Rees specially welcomed a party of 20 who had come from Duncan to attend the meeting.

Dean Brian Whitlow opened the service and pronounced the benediction. Prayers were led by Rev. James Smith of Emmanuel Baptist Church.

New Storm Due Late Sunday With More Rain

The south Vancouver Island area will have an overnight respite from rain before a new storm hits this region late Sunday, the weather office forecast today.

From midnight Friday to noon today, a little over one half inch of precipitation was measured at Gonzales.

Victoria is on the fringe of a Pacific storm moving east across the north tip of the Island. This storm is expected to pass on this evening, to be followed by a second storm Sunday afternoon bringing additional rain.

Most of Sunday will be cloudy with occasional sunny periods.

Local Brothers Ride Off With Portland Show Prizes

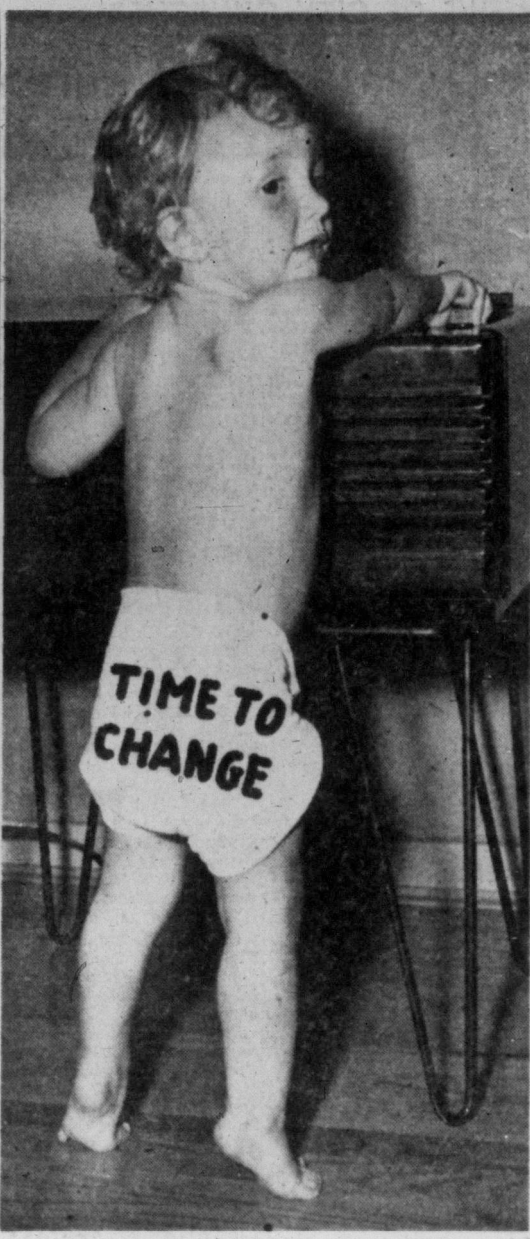

Two teen-age Gordon Head brothers have put Victoria on the map in Oregon horse show circles.

Ron and Bob Trickett, 4261 Torquay Drive, are home from a three-day Lake Oswego Hunt Club indoor ring show at Portland, with a fine showing behind them.

Eighteen-year-old Ron, with his sure-footed Sierra Sloux, and Bob, 17, riding his spunky Snokey, entered six events at the big show and won two trophies as well as nine ribbons.

It was the first time Victoria horsemen have taken part in the Portland event, and the hard-riding Canadians' impressive showing received wide attention.

One of the highlights of the show was Ron's performance in the pole-bending race. He and Sloux topped Oswego's Fred Roach on Sir Faddy, a top quarter horse stallion unbeaten in the event for the past six years. Bob and Snokey were a close third.

B.C. REVERTS TO STANDARD TIME at 2 a.m. Sunday, at which moment 16-month-old Diane reminds you to set your clock BACK one hour. Thus 2 a.m., PDT, will become 1 a.m., PST. Senior Citizen Home Plans Still Go Ahead

Senior Citizens' Housing Association of Greater Victoria bounced back today after city's refusal Friday to donate property for a pensioners' housing project.

"We will approach Saanich council next week and if they refuse us, we'll raise money somehow to buy property from the city," said president George E. Williams.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said today he "doubts very much" the legality of donating property "even to the best causes."

"At the same time I can't see how we could even consider giving property away free. We can't afford to donate property which belongs to the taxpayers."

MET WITH MAYOR

Members of the housing association met with Mayor Percy Scourrah Friday to report they had selected 237 acres on Harriet Road to launch a housing project which would accommodate 96 elderly persons.

"The mayor gave us a choice of seven properties a few months ago," Mr. Williams said. "We understood it would be free."

Mayor Scourrah told them there has been "quite a change since you were here last in the attitude of council on giving lands away for nothing."

He added that the city will sell them a site for the project but won't give it to them. "We can't afford to give any valuable property away. It wouldn't be fair to the taxpayers."

Williams plans to approach Saanich council before a special meeting of the housing association next Thursday.

"If they agree to donate property we will go ahead with our plans on a less ambitious scale," he said.

Present plans, drawn up by architect H. W. Pickstone, call for two 24-unit apartment blocks, each to accommodate 12 single persons and 12 couples, and duplexes and four-unit blocks to house another 60 persons.

Estimated cost would be $350,000.

One of the 24-unit apartments would be built first at an estimated $135,000. Single quarters would be rented for approximately $19.50 a month and married quarters for $26.

Mills Stymied In Fuel Shortage

Council Committee Faces Hopeless Task

The crisis over Greater Victoria's fuel wood shortage became more acute today as lumber company officials said bluntly they could see no solution to the problem.

Police Defied As Pair Takes Auto Again

Men Admit Guilt In City Court

Ronald Curran, 19, 69 Menzies, and David Ready, about 22, 17 Craigflower Court, took a car without the owner's consent twice and gave police a hectic hour and a quarter before they were charged with the offence early this morning.

Both pleaded guilty in court and were remanded for sentence to Monday. Curran also pleaded guilty to additional charges of driving without a licence and careless driving.

The pair was first stopped at 12.20 a.m. on Douglas after they were spotted driving at a high rate of speed in a car whose owner they could not properly identify.

Curran, the driver, had no driver's licence and they could show no automobile registration.

They told police they didn't know the car owner's surname, but that he lived at 1621 Quadra. The car required no ignition key to start.

RELEASED

Curran and Ready were checked at the police station and released.

An hour later police went back to the car, which was left on Discovery, to obtain its motor registration and "found the car gone."

At 1.30 the same car was spotted going north on Quadra, again at a high speed, and chase was given. Police followed the vehicle to Empress where it turned east and its two occupants — Curran and Ready — jumped out.

The car kept going, mounted a curb and crashed into a fire hydrant, causing slight damage. Ready was picked up at Quadra and Pembroke, Curran a little later at the Sherwood Hotel.

Meanwhile, the car was reported stolen by James H. Chalmers, HMCS New Glasgow, who had left it parked on Johnson between Douglas and Blanshard.

Two Saved After 15 Minutes Under Overturned Sailboat

A mother and her four-year-old son were rescued from the chilly waters of Cadboro Bay Friday after 15 minutes under the overturned hull of a small sailboat.

Mrs. Jean Stone and son Brian had been cruising in the boat with the father, Brian Stone, an army officer, on leave from Camp Shilo, at the helm.

A sudden gust of wind tipped the boat over about 300 yards from the Royal Victoria Yacht Club Jetty. Weight of the soaked sail and heavy mast kept the boat upside down.

Mr. Stone said he shoved

The lumbermen's gloomy attitude added up to a tough task for a proposed city council committee which is expected to tackle the shortage and come up with a plan to alleviate it.

"We just can't help," said one lumber official. "Ninety per cent of the waste wood on Vancouver Island mills is now being made into pulp chips for shipment to the U.S. and parts of B.C."

Another official came up with a possible solution, but it didn't appear to be practical.

He said householders who do not need to burn wood in their furnaces and fireplaces should change over to coal and oil, leaving the meagre wood supply for people who cannot afford any other type of fuel.

15,000 AFFECTED

Fuel dealers estimated that about 15,000 people burn wood in Victoria.

They said out of this number about 5,000 people, mostly elderly people, pensioners and temporary workers, can not afford to change over to coal or oil.

One dealer said that all but two mills on southern Vancouver Island are shipping all their waste wood to Victoria for fuel.

DON'T BLAME MILLS

The shortage is chiefly due to a decrease in supply from up-land mills which formerly shipped large quantities of wood to Victoria, he said. This wood was now being made into chips for sale to pulp mills.

"You can't blame the pulp mills for using the waste wood for chips," he said. "They get a better price for it than for fuel wood."

HOPE UP-ISLAND

Fuel dealers agreed that little could be done about the situation at present, unless up-land mills diverted some of their waste wood to Victoria.

"We can't rely on bush wood either," they said, "because it is not economical to ship it to Victoria."

One dealer said he has to go to Sooke for bush wood, a round-trip of 50 miles.

Mrs. Daisy Crampin, 3126 Wascana, speaking on behalf of people who burn wood, said the shortage was "desperate" for people with limited means. "They just can't afford to change to oil," she said. "One or two dollars means a lot to them."

A directors' meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Empress Hotel at noon, Friday, October 5.

TRADE MINISTER WESTWOOD
... Mr. Mayor, too

TO COMMUTE

New Minister To Retain Mayor's Chair

Earle C. Westwood, appointed to the provincial cabinet Thursday as minister of trade and industry, said today he has no immediate plans to give up his post as mayor of Nanaimo.

Mr. Westwood said he will carry on both jobs in the meantime "and see how things work out."

He plans to commute daily between Nanaimo and Victoria. Mr. Westwood said most city council business is done at night and should not interfere with his government work.

"There are a number of problems confronting Nanaimo and I want to have a hand in solving them," he said. Mr. Westwood still has more than a year to go in his two-year term as mayor.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—I read somewhere lately that radio listeners in Canada soon are to hear some of the great pipe organs of Britain. Is this true? L.W.W.

A.—Yes. A recent issue of the BBC London Letter noted: "There are many fine and interesting organs in the cathedrals, churches and concert halls of Britain. A series of six programs, entitled The Organ and its Music which are to be broadcast fortnightly in the BBC's General Overseas Service from the beginning of October, will introduce listeners overseas to some of these instruments, ranging from organs built in the seventeenth century to the magnificent organ in the Royal Festival Hall, London, which took nearly four years to build at a cost of £51,500 and was completed in 1954."

Q.—How old is the Arion Club of Victoria? Mrs. B.A.

A.—Its first concert was given May 17, 1893.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

I now have the complete gen on the ending of Daylight Saving Time, lucid, clear, curt, concise and complete.

Daylight Saving Time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 29, which, if your calendar has run down and you don't know, is tomorrow.

At 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 29, tomorrow, Daylight Saving Time will end, and it will suddenly stop being 2 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 29, tomorrow, and will become 1 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 29 tomorrow.

You must agree that, so far, I have been lucid, clear, curt and concise.

But to be complete, this explanation must take into consideration another vital matter:

What to do with the time between 2 a.m. (DST) and 1 a.m. (ST)?

At 2 a.m. it will suddenly become 1 a.m. At 2 a.m., you will rise from your bed (if you are a law-abiding citizen) and turn your clock or watch back to 1 a.m.

This will leave you with one hour (sometimes referred to as 60 minutes) before it once more becomes 2 a.m. In other words, you will have been presented with one twenty-fourth of a day, which is ALL YOUR OWN!

You will have an EXTRA hour.

This hour, I will admit, was taken away from you last spring. But you are now getting it back, at a time when you can make real use of it.

You should do something constructive about using the extra hour with which you have just been presented. You could:

- Wash the windows you promised to wash last April.
- Write the letter of thanks to your host at the first outdoor barbecue of the season.
- Set out the tomato plants you forgot to set out.
- File a suggestion in the suggestion box which is bound to win you the first prize in the summer sales contest.

- Have those nice people—the Browns, isn't it, or the Blacks? in for dinner, you've always meant to.
- Do the spring cleaning.
- Tell your wife, "My, you look pretty in that pretty print dress."

According to your own circumstances, you may be able to improve on these suggestions regarding the use of the extra hour you will gain, when 2 a.m. Sunday becomes 1 a.m. Sunday.

But the important point is this: Be sure you wake up and GET UP at 2 a.m. It is vital to use the added hour while it's fresh.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

Full Bible Message Told in God's Love

(The following is the third in a series of weekly discussions with ministers of churches in the Greater Victoria area, who will be asked to comment on the Biblical passage which holds the most significance for them.)

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Gospel according to St. John, chapter 3, verse 16.

"I believe the whole message of the Bible is focussed in this one verse," said the Very Reverend J. Lewis W. McLean, M.A., D.D., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

"There are many other passages one could quote—the 23rd psalm, which tells of a simple shepherd's trust in God—the 53rd chapter of Isaiah, which states, 'Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows' and shows us the love of God through the suffering of His servant.

"There is St. Luke, chapter 15, which brings that love down to everyday life, through the story of the prodigal son whose father says, '... for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.'

"God is not indifferent, but forgiving," Dr. McLean said. "This parable reminds us again of the love of the Father for His children."

Finally Dr. McLean referred to Romans, chapter eight, "For the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

All these quotations have their founding in the single verse from St. John, he said.

"Even when we realize we are off on the wrong foot, we know we are never beyond the love of God."

Dr. McLean marked his 18th year with St. Andrew's at the end of August. A highlight of his ministry was his term as moderator of the General As-

He also is chaplain to the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) and won the Canada decoration for long service last year. He has been chaplain with the regiment since 1939.

A graduate deaconess, Mrs. McLean is the "power behind the throne," he said.

ABOVE—Bustling activities at Royal Victoria Yacht Club will keep receptionist, Mrs. Helen Sinclair, busy the year round. After six months, she is convinced that hers is the best of jobs. She acts as a guide and informant to visiting yachtsmen and women and works with committees on social activities of the club.

"Your next appointment will be on Monday at 2 o'clock," smiles Miss Shirley Ridout, receptionist at the Medical Clinic of Drs. Patterson, Hunt and Associates. After a year of greeting people at the Fort Street clinic, Miss Ridout's is the familiar face patients look for when they come for treatments or checkups. In addition to making appointments, Miss Ridout keeps histories of patients and types out information on X-ray results.

RIGHT—Victoria's most modern structure, the new B.C. Electric building, requires three receptionists, and Miss Pat Campbell, Mrs. Pat Buchan and Miss Sheila Martin, left to right, fill the positions with efficiency and charm. Miss Campbell, as personnel receptionist, greets those applying for work and introduces them to the supervisor or his assistant. Both Mrs. Buchan and Miss Martin are receptionists in the Sales Department.

A second home to Mrs. Marie Brandon is the Empress Hotel, where she has held the position of receptionist and secretary to the manager for 11 years. One of her biggest jobs is taking reservations for Christmas guests and parties. "In fact, as soon as one Christmas is over, I start work on the next," she says. Mrs. Brandon gets such questions as: "How do you make your crumpets?" and she answers them willingly, if the chef will divulge his precious recipes. Others ask: "Where can I buy woollens and china?" and yet other requests send her to the head gardener to ask names of various plants and flowers growing in the hotel's gardens or conservatory.

Fair Guardians of the Gates

A receptionist is a charming diplomat who guards the portals to her boss' inner sanctum with a discreet smile. Duties vary with the job, of course, but the receptionist always sets the atmosphere for an office. She must possess a ready smile, a self-assured manner and be capable of handling any situation with tact and courtesy.

A good receptionist knows that neatness of dress is imperative. But she must be much more than pleasing to the eye and charming to meet. Intelligence is one of the main reasons she is chosen for the job.

Most important prerequisite to becoming a successful receptionist is a good, healthy desire to meet people . . . lots of them. If a woman has an out-going personality, no other position could offer such advantages and pleasures.

A pleasant-speaking voice is particularly essential to a radio station receptionist. Joan Anderson at CKDA answers hundreds of calls each day by giving the time. Here she is saying, "25 minutes to 1 . . . CKDA," and it's very possible the party on the other end of the line will say "Thank you" and hang up. Joan gets at least 25 calls a day from people wanting to check their watches. Many others phone in to report news. If the newsroom is busy or empty, Joan takes the message. People call up to report some very strange things, she says. The other day a caller wanted to know if she thought a three-yoked egg was news-worthy.

Versatile, Sparkly Jewelry
Changed With Your Whims

By PENNY SAVER

Sparkly link jewelry that can be pulled apart, and put back together again as necklaces, bracelets or chokers is the newest thing for evening glitter. Individual costume stones set in a gold metal have snap hinges that fit into each other so that you separate them the same way as the bead jewelry you saw this summer in so many colors. Amethyst, crystal, blue, amber, yellow, green, grey . . . those are the colors you can choose. Earrings in five different styles can also be altered. To the bottom stones can be added other links to form danglers and drop styles. A necklace, at $5, can be separated to make a choker and a bracelet, with four extra links that can be used to change the earrings which cost from $1 to $2.95.

For spare time fun, for a hobby, or for a youngster's treat, the link-belt sets available in town are wonderful. Something new, these belts are your own pattern, own work. Flowers, squares, cubes and a variety of shapes in pliable, bright-colored plastic form the units which link together to make a belt for you. Make solid colored ones, mix up the colors or vary the shapes of links, and when you grow tired of one belt, just take it apart and rebuild it in another design. Each unit costs five cents. Reds, greens, orange and all tones of favorite colors are displayed to please you.

If you're in the market for a scrapbook, here's an exceptional buy for you. For 29 cents you can have a 10 by 15-inch scrapbook with about 50 pages in it.

WHY GROW OLD?

Here Are Six Tips on How To Sit with Poise

The way you go upstairs and come down, sit in a chair or get up out of it, makes a big difference in the impression you make on others.

Today let's think of the way we sit in a chair. I am sure that you have seen women who remind you of cartoons who have seen because of the manner in which they sit. Here are a few suggestions:

1. If possible choose a chair which fits your height and weight and the length of your legs. If you are overweight do not select a light, dainty chair. If you are short do not choose a tall chair or a deep divan. If you are tall do not sit in a very low chair if you can help it. You will be more comfortable and look more attractive in a higher or deeper one.
2. Some women begin sitting down before they are close enough to the chair. They reach for it. Walk toward the chair you are going to sit down in. Turn around, touch the chair with the backs of your legs, tuck your hips under, bend your knees and sit down. Don't fall down into it!
3. If you are going to sit down in a deep divan or chair do not try to make the whole distance with one dramatic plunge. Sit on the edge of the chair or divan. Place your hands lightly on the arms or the edge, lift your hips and push back until you are sitting correctly. Your hips should touch the back of the chair and your back should be straight.

4. Keep your knees and feet together or with the toe of one foot by the instep of the other. Do not have the knees too tightly bent. Place the feet a little forward.

5. If you cross your knees, do so at the knee instead of the calf. The latter makes your legs look large or out of shape. If you are overweight you will look more attractive if you do not cross your knees.

6. Your arms can rest lightly on the arms of the chair or in your lap. If you would like to have my leaflet, "Grace," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 57. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Plunging Necklines Demand Perfection
In Milady's Foundation Silhouette

Neckline has new meaning in this fall's styles. It refers to the back view as well as the front, for the trend is toward a low back and higher front. More and more cocktail and evening dresses are bare in the back, sometimes almost to the waistline. So any fall wardrobe that includes these popular clothes must also include a bra, bralette or corselet to go under them. Straps that show in back are as ugly as straps that show in front.

The way to avoid having to pin or hitch straps out of the way all evening is to buy new foundations when selecting any new party clothes. In this way, the lines of dress and of body are co-ordinated.

Selecting low-backed foundations depends, as in all foundation buying, on the figure. The slim lass needs only a light bra and girdle, as she has no excess flesh to be kept under control. The slim and svelter who favors a velvet or jersey dress with no back at all will want a bra that fits wide at the shoulders and anchors around the waist.

Dresses that are strapless, in addition, call for a strapless bra with side inserts of elastic that permit the band to plunge in back without slipping off. Average figures that need back and midriff control, in addition to bosom control, call for a bralette or corselet. This smooths the torso to sheath lines.

For the front view's maximum effect, the wearer must select with care. The plunging-in-back fashions that have high front necks call for a high and rounded cup to refine the figure to the stylish line.

Lines that plunge both front and back call for strapless foundations with wiring under or over and between the cups.

THE OVER-AVERAGE FIGURE
Fashions for the larger women have always been designed to minimize the bosom and hips while defining the waist. Girdles and brassiers for the big woman can be as light in look and fit as those for the slimmer figure. There is seldom a need for the laced and harnessed medieval torture garment many mature women affect. Power net, leno elastics, nylon and dacron, cotton and satin are doing wonders for the bulk of foundation garments.

A bra extending to the waistline is best for a full bosom, particularly if there is a fleshy diaphragm. Strapless bras and strapped ones that extend their coverage downward come in A, B, C and D cups.

For strapless dresses the mature woman may select a long-line strapless bra and a lightweight girdle to overlap it.

Foundation garments for the low back dress should assure a strapless view, front and back. For those who like a corselet a good choice is one with wired lace bra cups and a front panel of fine gauge elastic.

If you prefer to have your diaphragm and waist control done by the girdle, rather than the bra, choose a high-waisted style. Ample hips and waists need a zippered, rather than a pull-on garment for control and comfort.

A bra and a high-rise girdle or waist-length bra and a shorter girdle meeting it can give the same long lines as a corselet. Separates that meet may be more comfortable and better fitting than a corselet if either the bosom or hip line is out of proportion.

The one-piece foundation, if it fits perfectly all over, is eminently satisfactory for the fashions that need figure restraint and an unbroken line through the midriff.

When you are properly fitted, humps and bulges have disappeared and you are perfectly comfortable.

A surprise miscellaneous shower was held recently to honor Miss Beverly Jones. The party was held at the home of Miss Suzanne Buttrey. Pink carnations were presented to Miss Jones, and pink and gold chrysanthemums to her mother, Mrs. D. Jones and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. E. Foster. A miniature "56" stock car held the gifts. Guests included the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. J. Switzer, Mrs. R. Lyall, Mrs. M. Buttrey, Mrs. B. Erb, Mrs. B. Small, Mrs. A. Happy, Misses Yvonne Spencer, Jerry Michaels, Doreen Coles, Barbara Fallis, Helen Ivings, Dell Martin, Annlyn Florence and Barbara Henry.

These dahlias I grew would take any prize. If a blue ribbon was given for color & size; They hang their heads by the garden gate. As if ashamed of their colossal weight. And no matter how I help them out, They snap their stalks... sulk & pout. So all I can do (& it seems their wish) is to lop their heads in one clean swish. The largest "she" placed in a dinner plate. With water to feed & carry the weight. And you may think I'm telling another tale. But it overlapped & spread o'er the table. So in the kitchen nook we had to eat. My dahlias, I tell you, are quite some feat. "For Pete's Sake," she moaned, "I've used every pan, Can't you just ditch 'em, in the garbage can?" I went outside, and stood by the small Oak Gate-Leg Table of Agate, braced the biggest with a 2 by 4. Then beheaded the thing, it fell in the mud. Almost buried itself with a heavy thud. Then I took it outside on the boulevard, Indo-Suruk Rug $700, two others changing hands at $670 and $480. Inlaid Walnut Coffee Tables of several designs all in beautiful condition were greatly in demand, two oval tables making $180 and $185 respectively, whilst a rectangular shaped edged table made $270. Three French Inlaid China Cabinets were on sale and very choice example with painted panels reached the figure of $360. The two other smaller cabinets being sold at $150 and $100. A good display of Georgian and Victorian Silver was offered, an Inkstand selling at $100 and a Cake Basket reaching $115. Small modern Loveseats sold at $150, and a pair of wing-backed Armchairs found a buyer at $200. A rosewood fold-over Card Table caused spirited bidding before it was knocked down for $165.

Norene Ross Married In Metropolitan Church

Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the quiet ceremony in the lounge of Metropolitan United Church on Friday evening when Miss Norene Louise Ross became the bride of Thomas Frederick Carr. Autumn chrysanthemums were arranged to form a setting for the wedding.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Ross, 2148 Granite Street, was given in marriage by her father. Her princess gown of pink champagne brocade featured a scoop neckline and empire waistline from which extended a flowing band and train of filmy nylon tulle. Her hat was a small feathered pink champagne cloche. She wore matching accessories and carried a crescent bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and mauve chrysanthemums into which was tucked her great-grandmother's lace handkerchief.

Miss Patricia Wadsworth, Vancouver, was the bride's only attendant and wore a cocoa brown tulle-trimmed cotton dress, bouffant-skirted with H-line bodice. Her cummerbund and accessories were mocha brown, and she carried a colonial bouquet of Talisman roses and golden chrysanthemums.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Carr, Tete Jaune, B.C., had Harold L. Armistage, RCN (R) of Calgary, as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt at 136 Wellington Avenue, where Jack Lines proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Ross, wearing a Paris blue after-five sheath with white fur hat and complementing accessories, assisted the young couple in receiving their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr will live in Mt. Robson, B.C., following their honeymoon trip to Mexico. For travelling the bride chose a navy blue French crepe suit with pink champagne toned accessories.

Letters Read—At meeting of Major John Hebdon Gillespie Chapter, IOOE, letters were read from the adopted school at Aleza Lake, B.C. Plans were made for a rummage sale and conveners named for the children's fancy dress Christmas party in late December in the Empress Hotel.

Gown of Ivory Brocade Worn by Pat Wilkinson

This afternoon in the Church of St. George the Martyr, Rev. W. Hills heard the wedding vows of Miss Patricia Ann Seaton Wilkinson and Mr. Keith Illingworth.

The lovely dark-haired bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Seaton Wilkinson, Conifer Cottage, 53 PARRY ROAD, at Metchoin, was given in marriage by her father.

Her bridal gown was styled on princess lines with a scoop neckline and ballerina-length skirt. Complementing her ivory brocade gown was a misting three-quarter-length veil. She wore pearl jewelry and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Jane Schofield, Miss Shirley Bovan and Miss Rita Wilkinson were bridesmaids and were gowned in brocade dresses in pale pink, café-lait and ice blue in similar style to the bride's gown. They wore matching feather headdresses and carried bouquets of pink carnations and bronze-pink chrysanthemums centred with princess roses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Illingworth, Bradford, Eng., had George Parson as best man. Ushers were John Seaton Wilkinson and Douglas Peck. Dr. Donald Petty proposed the toast to the bride at the reception party held in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Asters, dahlias and cosmos in cream and pink formed the floral setting.

For traveling the bride donned a dress of fine coral wool with matching hat and grey accessories. She wore a corsage of orchids.

Following a honeymoon up-Island, the newlyweds will make their home at 1217 McKenzie Avenue.

WOMEN COMBINE TO INCREASE THE VOTE

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—The main objective of the National Council of Women this year will be to increase voting in municipal areas, the president, Mrs. Rex Eaton, said Friday.

Mrs. Eaton told more than 70 delegates at a British Columbia convention that "lack of interest in municipal affairs is the first step in producing conditions where inefficient and possibly dishonest men might take over the rule of the land."

Mrs. Eaton said the International Women's Council will meet in Canada next year, for the first time since 1909. The meeting will be at Montreal.

Lourdes Parish Bazaar To Be Held Wednesday

Mrs. Attwater's Story Told To Hand Weavers

At meeting of the Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild held in the Art Gallery, Mrs. W. Ellis gave an outline of the life of the late Mrs. Mary Meigs Attwater, America's outstanding weaver, who twice conducted classes in Victoria.

A trained artist married to a mining engineer, Mrs. Attwater travelled much with her husband and in her travels saw many different forms of weaving which later she adapted to her own designs. When they settled in Montana, she started weaving in earnest.

She loved to delve, to work on drafts and to examine old weaving. When the army called for skilled craftswomen Mrs. Attwater started in as a voluntary worker in military hospitals. She published books on weaving, one of which is known as the weaver's bible, and she started classes by correspondence.

Mrs. Ellis, who worked with Mrs. Attwater as an assistant when she conducted classes in Vancouver and in the B.C. youth training project, described her as "a woman so alive she inspired others with her enthusiasm."

Mrs. A. E. Kimmis presided at the meeting and Mrs. H. Grosstein, formerly of Vancouver, was welcomed as a new member. Announcement was made that seven weaving prizes were won by two members of the guild during the summer. Miss Marjorie Hill won two firsts and a second at the PNE; Mrs. M. Harrison won two firsts at the PNE, a first in Saanich, and a first at Mayne Island fair. At close of the meeting the members visited the exhibition, "B.C. Arts Today," in the Art Gallery.

THE MOST TRUSTED QUALITY

"I wish I could be sure of that!" the mother thought. Mother and dad must do their best not to get upset about thumb sucking. Nagging or punishing a child for this only makes it worse. Talking about it to the child in an effort to reason with the youngster, or discussing it with another adult in the child's hearing, only concentrate the boy's or girl's attention on thumb sucking.

Countless parents have worried about thumb sucking. Babies have a need to suck and during the first year of a child's life sucking during the feeding time is one of the main sources of pleasure. This instinct is strongest in his first six months, and then gradually lessens and is replaced.

In primitive tribes and in homes where a baby is fed, not by the clock, but "on demand," when he cries for his meal, thumb sucking is uncommon. A baby should never be hurried away from the breast or the bottle. He should have time to enjoy his food while his mother holds him in her arms.

The mother who forces her child to drink from a cup at a very early age, and makes him forego the pleasure of sucking his milk, may find that the baby substitutes his thumb for a nipple.

It is the rare infant who does not suck his thumb once in a while! A habit is easier to prevent than to break once it is firmly established. Giving baby a sterilized rubber ring to bite and suck, or handing the older baby a clean toy to hold, will often redirect the youngster's attention away from his thumb.

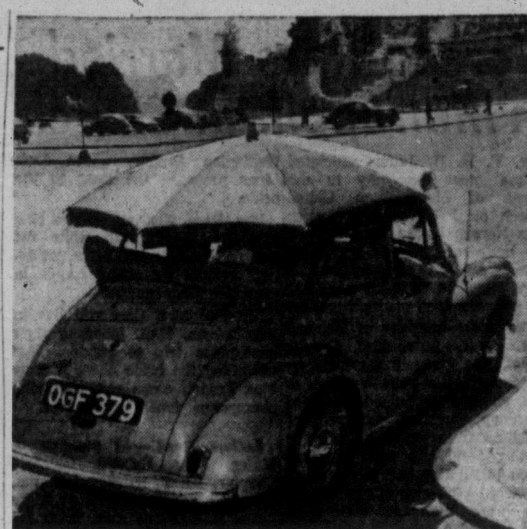

Approximately one child out of every three or four sucks his thumb to some extent after babyhood is left behind. Only when this habit is long-continued, with the hand pressing on the roof of the mouth or the lower jaw is the shape of the mouth and the formation of teeth harmed. Cases of very sore thumbs and mouth damage are comparatively rare.

The parents who go to the Child Specialist to discuss an undesirable habit (thumb sucking is just one of several) which is persisting into the school age, will discover that the doctor tries to look beneath the surface and find the cause.

REMOVE CAUSE
The doctor, as a rule, does not prescribe an artificial way to force the child to stop. But rather he attempts to find the conditions under which the child resorts to thumb sucking. When the parents can remove the cause, the thumb sucking will gradually disappear.

Mothers usually observe that a child sucks his thumb when he is tired or hungry or not feeling well, or is shy or emotionally upset. Many children go through the day without thumb sucking until bed time. Changing the child's routine with more rest or earlier hours for meals and bed may help. A doctor, after a routine physical examination, may prescribe a tonic, or make a suggestion which will improve the child's general condition. Frequently his thumb sucking will be replaced by more active, satisfying play.

Occasionally a child who is in excellent physical condition sucks his thumb because he is bored. He needs interesting play material to keep him busy. If he is three or more he is beginning to long for companionship of other children, his own age. Mother would do well to provide him with chums rather than buy mechanical restraints for thumb sucking.

Sunday TV Show Sparks Start Of Community Chest Fund Drive

Outstanding show-business personalities from Canada and the United States will display their talents on "The United Way Show," an hour-long variety program with the dual purpose of entertaining the television audience and of promoting a country-wide charity campaign at 10 p.m. on Channel 2 Sunday.

There will be songs by chanteuse Lise Roy and musical comedy stars Betty Jane Watson from the U.S. and Allan Girard from Montreal. Pianist and composer Glenn Gould will be appearing along with dancers Johnny Coy, Irene Apine and Jerry Gotshalks. Comedy skits will feature Max Ferguson (better known to Trans-Canada Network listeners as "Rawhide"), Jacques Normand, versatile Montreal television, radio, nightclub and theatre performer, and Norman Hudson will do his unique caricatures that recently received acclaim in New York. The Edwards Brothers, Montreal's great family of acrobats who have become familiar to Ed Sullivan's viewers, will perform. Johnny Coy returns to Montreal with his version of "The Tap Dancer's Nightmare."

Master of ceremonies is Christopher Plummer, just back from the Stratford group's presentation at the Edinburgh Festival. Even the "comedians" will include celebrities familiar to Canadians, as they will be handled by Marilyn Bell, Allan Mills, Jimmy Tapp, Doug Smith, Commander Whitehead and Claire Bloom of the "Old Vic" theatre. OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army has changed its European mailing address to try to eliminate the problem of insufficient postage on mail going overseas.

Army headquarters said Friday that every month an average of 1,000 pieces of personal mail arrive at the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group in West Germany with insufficient postage.

It appears that many senders in Canada affixed postage which would carry their mail only to Montreal because of the army overseas address "CAPO 5050, Montreal."

The correct form of address now is:

Number, rank, name, "Unit," Canadian Army Post Office 5050, Canadian Armed Forces Europe.

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ottawa widow learned Friday she is eligible for about $8,000 in widow's pension from the Canadian Pension Commission.

Mrs. Irene Massey, 41-year-old Senate charwoman, first applied for a pension in 1940 when her husband, Pte. Alfred Massey of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, was killed in a highway crash while driving from Camp Borden to Ottawa on a weekend pass.

At the time, her request was refused because her husband was not on active duty at the time of his death. However, she applied to the commission in 1953 when she learned the legislation had been changed, and was awarded $170 a month, retroactive 12 months.

A pensions commission official today said the commission had reviewed her case and found her eligible for back-pension to 1946, when the legislation was amended to provide pensions to servicemen's survivors, whether killed on duty or not.

The official said Mrs. Massey is eligible for total back-pension of $13,800, but about $5,900 of it will be turned over to the Ontario Mothers' Allowance Fund to cover payments made to her by it.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby
No medal will ever be awarded North and South for getting to a contract of three no-trump or any day's hand. A part score in hearts would have been normal and sensible.

THE UNUSUAL NO-TRUMP

Contract gave the defenders a chance to show their skill. Mrs. Margaret Wagar, Atlanta expert, opened the eight of clubs. Dummy's king of hearts, of course, and King McDonald dropped the jack of clubs from the East hand. This unblock was an essential play.

DECLARER HAD TO GO

After the hearts, so he led a small heart to his ace at the second trick. Thereupon Mrs. Wagar carefully deposited the king of hearts!

THIS SECOND UNBLOCK permitted East to win a heart trick. East returned his carefully preserved low club, and Mrs. Wagar was able to set the contract with five club tricks!

BOTH UNBLOCKS WERE NECESSARY.

If East kept the jack of clubs, the suit could not be run. For example, if East eventually led the jack of clubs, an overtake would set up South's ten as a second stopper; and failure to overtake would end the clubs immediately.

Diesel Car Trial On PGE Monday After Rock Slide

First of the Pacific Great Eastern's new diesel-powered Budd cars will make a trial run to Prince George next Monday.

Ralph Chetwynd, Minister of Railways, until his appointment as Agriculture Minister in the re-organized cabinet, said today the line is expected to be reopened this weekend following a bridge washout and rock slide.

The slide occurred near Horse-shoe Bay, close to the site of the avalanche of mud and rocks which stalled the PGE's inaugural run over the southern extension last month, and the bridge washout just north of Squamish on the Miquiquin River.

Mr. Chetwynd said the new Budd cars eventually will make the trip from Vancouver to Prince George in 18 hours, faster than the buses. The railways portfolio was taken over by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks in the cabinet shuffle. Mr. Chetwynd will continue as a director of the PGE, however.

Surveys Start For Northern Island Road

Organization of a survey party to determine the best route for extension of the Island Highway north to Port Hardy is now under way, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said today.

A party of location engineers will study two possible routes for the road, one following the rocky coastline along the eastern shore of the Island, the other a more roundabout way through an interior valley.

Plans for the road, long sought by residents of isolated communities at the head of the Island, were first disclosed by Mr. Gagliardi at the last session of the Legislature.

A month ago, at the start of the provincial election campaign, the minister disclosed that Alaska Pine & Cellulose, which has a number of logging and pulp operations in the area, had agreed to share costs of the road.

INCO METALS AT WORK IN CANADA

A Copper is one of the metals obtained when Inco workmen mine, mill, smelt and refine the ore.

Strip made from Inco copper is formed into fins for automobile radiators.

The number of fins in each radiator depends on cooling requirements.

Radiators are assembled, soldered and painted.

Along the assembly lines in automobile plants, the radiators are installed on cars and trucks.

8 out of 10 automobile radiators on Canadian cars are made from INCO COPPER

Automobile radiators are made almost entirely of copper. And on Canadian cars, it's almost always Inco copper. Here's how this copper helps make jobs for thousands of Canadians:

1. To produce copper, Inco ore is mined, milled, smelted and refined by Canadian workmen. About 18,000 people work for Inco in Canada.

2. Refined copper is sold to Canadian companies for the manufacture of copper tube, sheet, strip, rod and wire. These companies employ several thousand men and women.

3. The copper strip goes to Canadian automobile radiator manufacturers where it is formed into tube for the production of radiators. More people are employed here.

4. Along the assembly lines of the automobile companies, Canadian workmen install these radiators on cars and trucks.

Inco produces over 250,000,000 pounds of copper a year. And more than half of this copper is used by Canadian industries.

If you would like to receive a copy of "The Nickel Industry in Canada," a Presentation to the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects by the International Nickel Company of Canada, one will be mailed to you on request. The supply is limited.

The two youths and two teen-aged girls charged with offering an indignity to a male corpse in the Alberni cemetery last Sunday have been formally charged and will appear in city police court in Alberni Oct. 6. In custody are David Windsor Ferguson, 19, William Harold Nelson, 18, and waitresses Alma Doreen Lockner, 19, and Jean Gibson, 17. They face a maximum penalty of five years each under the section of the Criminal Code dealing with desecration of graves and corpses. A male corpse was unearthed with a shovel, the casket broken open, a logging chain attached to one ankle and the body towed about 12 feet from the graveside by a car.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY
In addition, grave headstones were thrown around. Nelson has already pleaded guilty. Ferguson has reserved his plea and the two girls have not pleaded.

FUND DRIVE OPENS MONDAY

Governor, Premier Urge Chest Support

"Give and ye shall receive." As members of society, we receive what we put into it. The health of society is our health.

Thus the 1956 Red Feather campaign opens Monday, Victoria's 20th, which since 1937 has raised $2,225,000 for local charities.

The Chest wants $220,000 this year to handle needs of 19 agencies, ranging from muscular dystrophy to care of the blind.

All the area's leading citizens are behind the drive, which lasts to Oct. 27.

To persons who say "I would not give a nickel" and, unfortunately there are a few of these, Chest officials make this retort:

"Rarely do we go through life without needing help, either monetary, physical or spiritual. The person who can't realize that his may be the next case, or that of his family, is short-sighted indeed. Altogether apart from that, this world is not built on selfishness. In a mature society, we are our brothers' keepers."

Said Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross: "It should be the duty of every citizen, in good health and in full employment, to make some contribution, large or small."

The reward, he said, is in helping the less fortunate. For example, everybody likes a child. And one of the Chest agencies is the Family and Children's Service which does just that; placing children from broken homes; trying to re-establish these homes; helping the children themselves with adjustment.

Said Premier W. A. C. Bennett: "It is our earnest hope people meet the urgent need. The 19 agencies represent more than help for the needy. They represent a lesson in everyday Christianity."

There was no discussion of his leadership at a day-long meeting here Friday of officers of the B.C. Liberal Association. Liberal leaders said only a provincial convention could discuss the question of leadership and there is no Liberal convention planned for 1957.

Three Home Runs Blast Pirates 6-2

BROOKLYN—Behind the masterful pitching of Sal (No-Hit) Maglie the Brooklyn Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2 today, in the first game of a double-header, to move back into a first-place tie with Milwaukee Braves in the torrid National League pennant race.

Backing Maglie's fine hurling were the big bats of Sandy Amoros, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges. After Pittsburgh had moved into a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on Frank Thomas' one-board home run, Dodgers got three in their half of the frame, two of them on the strength of Amoros' homer. Furillo made it 4-2 with his 20th home run in the sixth and

Time to Change See Page 17

Hodges hit one out of the park with Duke Snyder resting on third in the eighth to clinch it. Milwaukee doesn't play until tonight when southpaw ace Warren Spahn will oppose Herman Wehmeier, a journeyman Cardinal right-hander.

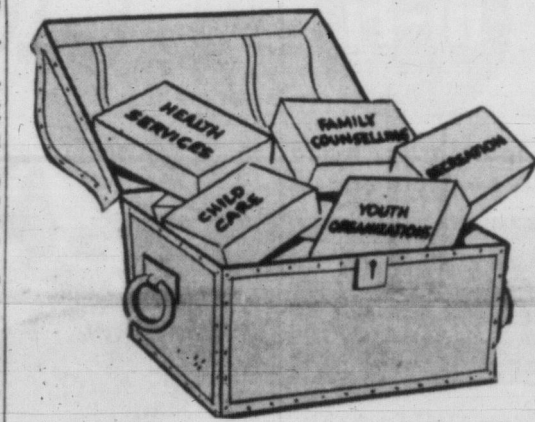

If the Dodgers split their doubleheader, and the percentage always is against winning two, Milwaukee can go back in first place by beating St. Louis tonight. If Brooklyn wins two, Milwaukee will have to win to stay even.

First Game— 3:00 P.M. N.H.E. PITCHERS—200 000 900—2 4 6 Brooklyn 122—4 11 9 Pirates, Amoros (8), King (8) and Hodges, Poles (7), Maglie and Campbell.

RN Sub Completes Emergency Trip

GREENOCK, Scotland (CP)—A submarine today transported a critically ill man across the storm-lashed Firth of Clyde for an operation after two surface vessels were forced back.

An army motor launch first tried to cross the bay to deliver 34-year-old Reginald Wateridge to Greenock hospital. When the storm turned back the launch, a 60-ton fishing vessel tried. Finally, the 1,200-ton sub Andrew took Wateridge aboard through a torpedo hatch.

Persecution Drove Mother Mad, Poznan Rioter Sobs in Court

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—A his mother mad and made his brother commit suicide. In a choked voice, 22-year-old Janusz Suwart addressed the court trying him and eight other youths for stealing and setting fire to security headquarters during the Poznan riots June 28 in which 33 persons were killed and about 200 injured.

In a second court three other men are being tried for murdering a security officer. Altogether, 153 persons are under indictment as a result of the "black Thursday" bread riots.

Presiding Judge Walsaw Celninski warned the final 10 witnesses to show neither hatred nor sympathy for the three men accused of murder. Witnesses said the officer was beaten, kicked and trampled upon until he "looked something horrible."

THIS AMAZING WORLD OF FUR-LINED BATHTUBS AND ELVIS PRESLEY

Oil, Oil Everywhere—On Basement Floor

TORONTO (CP)—A fuel truck pulled up at a city house this week and the operator pumped 200 gallons of oil into the basement before an upset housewife rushed out to tell him there no longer is a fuel tank there.

Mrs. Stefan Chorny said she smelled the fumes and ran to the basement to find thick oil swirling over the floor and seeping dangerously close to the pilot light of a newly installed gas-heated tank.

Firemen used bags of absorbent material to drain the oil.

CALGARY (CP)—The Better Business Bureau here says it has had some peculiar requests but the latest tops them all.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Gracious Father, regard with Thy favor this land in which our lives are set. May its laws be just, its streets safe, its leaders incorruptible, and its people pleasing in Thy sight; for Thy dear name's sake. Amen.

Several Calgarians have inquired as the legitimacy of a door-to-door saleswoman taking orders for "fur-lined bathtubs."

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Charles Kuenzi was in the hospital delivery room when his wife gave birth to a girl, their fifth child, Friday.

Mrs. Kuenzi and the baby came through in fine shape, but Kuenzi fainted, fell, broke his jaw, broke his nose, suffered concussion and was put to bed in the same hospital.

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A New York man was arrested Friday and accused of sending

ing a letter to Eddie Arcaro, one of the world's top jockeys, demanding $200 to recoup money he lost betting on horses Arcaro rode.

Irving Weissman, 50, held in $1,000 bail, said: "I always lose when I bet on him and when I bet against him he wins."

Although it's shown on a sewer map, several ditches dug across streets and the efforts of an electric pipe locator have been to no avail.

If it can't be found says suburban Madison Heights city manager Donald Smith, a new sewer will have to be laid—at a cost of $5,000.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—If you were an attractive, 20-year-old girl and saw your picture in a magazine with Elvis Presley's head on your shoulder, what would you do?

Robbie Moore threatened to sue. And Presley, the rock 'n' roll singer, paid her $5,500 in an out-of-court settlement. Presley told reporters he had known Miss Moore "for many years and had no idea she would object to the picture."

Somoza Succumbs To Assassin Bullet

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP)—President Anastasio Somoza, undisputed strong man of Nicaragua for 20 years, died today of an assassin's bullets.

The 60-year-old Central American leader never regained full consciousness after an operation performed Sunday by a surgical team including United States surgeons sent by President Eisenhower.

He died in the U.S.-operated Gorgas Hospital in the Panama Canal Zone, where he was flown following the Sept. 21 shooting in which he suffered four wounds.

He had been on a campaign tour seeking another six-year term as president when he was felled at a party and dance at Leon, 45 miles outside Managua, the capital. His assassin, Lopez Perez, a 27-year-old typesetter, was shot dead on the spot by the president's guards.

Under Nicaragua law, Somoza's 34-year-old son, Luis, succeeds to the presidency. Congress made him acting-president Friday. Another son, Anastasio, Jr., 32, is head of the Nicaraguan army.

Somoza died at 5:05 a.m., a few minutes after receiving the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church. The colorful, 200-pound president had showed steady but slight improvement in the five days following the operation, but at midnight Friday night his condition took a grave turn.

Somoza's son-in-law, Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Nicaraguan ambassador in Washington, told reporters the body would be flown to Managua today or tomorrow.

In Somoza's room at the end were his wife, daughter and President Ricardo Arias of Panama.

Head-On Crash At Chilliwack Kills Woman

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Mrs. Nan Armstrong, about 35, of Chilliwack, was killed and three men seriously injured in a head-on collision between two cars on the Trans-Canada Highway near here Friday night.

The injured, all residents of Chilliwack, are William Hart, 60, John Stokes and a Mr. Thew. Hart, said by police to have been the driver of the car in which Mrs. Armstrong was riding, was in critical condition in hospital with multiple injuries. Stokes and Thew both suffered head injuries and broken ribs.

Manchester U. Hikes Lead In Football

LONDON (UP)—Manchester United, defending first division champion in the British Soccer League, increased its lead to two points and its unbeaten break to 10 games today by defeating Arsenal, 2-1.

The defending champions have won eight games and tied two this season for a total of 18 points.

Leeds remained second but fell two points behind Manchester United when it could only salvage a 2-2 tie with Luton. Leeds has 16 points.

Jailed 24 Years Pleads to Die

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After 24 years in prison, Gilbert F. Collie, one-time "gorilla man" of San Bernardino County, has asked the California Supreme Court to execute him and free him "from this living death" of a life term.

In a written plea Friday, Collie, now 76, said:

"I ask that the court set aside the commutation and that the death penalty be invoked to give me a more merciful and humane death by hanging, as provided by the original sentence."

"I am old, ready for death and tired of this mockery of justice. It appears the courts take sadistic glee in refusing to hear me. I want freedom from this living death."

Collie, called the "gorilla man" because of his tremendous strength and black beard, was convicted in 1932 of the murder of two men. He was sentenced to be hanged, California's legal form of execution then.

He became deranged waiting for execution and was sent to a state hospital where psychiatrists determined that he could retain his sanity when not faced with the threat of execution.

The late governor James Rolph commuted the sentence to life imprisonment with a permanent injunction against parole.

SIMPLE, BRIEF RITES

Friends, Celebrities Honor Beloved Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The beautiful but simple Lutheran order for the burial of the dead was read Friday for Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

Hundreds of residents of the home town the Babe never forgot joined with celebrities of the sports world for the funeral services of the world's greatest woman athlete. She died Thursday.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want," Rev. A. C. Wydek read from the 23rd psalm in opening the brief service in Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

The small church of buff tile and brick is only a few blocks from the old Didrikson home on Daught Street where the Babe as a tomboy began to capture the admiration of her hometown and the world.

To the pastor's right in the 500-seat chapel was the blue silk casket of redwood. Immediately in front of the casket sat George Zaharias, the 280-pound husband who tenderly attended the Babe's every need during a three-year battle she knew she could not win. Death ended the battle in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex. Cancer had ravaged the once powerful body—reducing its weight from 145 to 80 pounds—but it never defeated the Babe's spirit.

With a handkerchief, George wiped away tears as he left the funeral home chapel. Then he departed for Forest Lawn Memorial Park to select a burial plot on which George plans to erect a large monument to the courageous woman he, Beaumont, and the world loved so well.

Smoking-Lung Cancer Link Proved by 4-Year Study

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Telegram and Sun says in a copy-righted story that the American Cancer Society final report on a survey of smoking habits will "flatly state" there is a relationship between cigarette smoking and death from lung cancer.

The report, ending a four-year study, is not to be issued for several months.

Officials of the cancer society said it is their opinion that the report will offer the conclusions as published by the newspaper.

They explained, however, that previous reports issued by the society offered the same conclusions and that the forthcoming re-

Popov Worked On Spy Chain, PM Reports

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says expelled Russian diplomat Gehnadi Popov was a suspected NKVD espionage agent trying to set up spy links in Canada.

But he indicated at a press conference Friday he wished the story of the Popov-Staples affair had not become public. He would have wanted to keep it under wraps to protect James Stanley Staples' name and to prevent the possibility of the affair being blown up into an international incident.

He would not be surprised, he said, if all foreign governments represented in Canada had spy systems, though not necessarily operating in this country. In any case Canada had a "pretty efficient" counter-espionage organization.

Police Club Crowd Trying to See Princess

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (Reuters)—Police used clubs to beat back excited Mauritians fighting to get a glimpse of Princess Margaret as she came ashore today to this Indian Ocean island from the royal yacht Britannia.

The crowd was in an ugly mood for a moment until it was distracted by the appearance of the King's African Rifles band and the princess' guard of honor.

But the embattled Mauritians cheered as the princess stepped ashore on a thick red carpet and walked smiling to a rose-decked reception platform.

Despite a last-minute political ruckus which led one council member to plead with Mauritians to boycott Margaret's reception because of the extra expense of the visit, she was cheered by waving crowds all along her route.

MEMORIAL TO BUILDERS

Worker's Effigy To Adorn Cathedral

Likeness of workman Allan Rothwell will be among moulded concrete heads of local priests and the hierarchy of the Anglican Church being installed this week on two West Towers of Christ Church Cathedral.

Rothwell's effigy will be placed as a memorial to all the men who have worked on the cathedral.

Scaffolding will be removed from the front of the church by the end of October following three years of work and $250,000 of construction.

110 FEET UP

Other heads, shaped from photographs by Reginald Dove to be installed at the top of 110 foot columns between the louvred windows, include likenesses of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey Fisher; Canon Edward P. Laycock, a former archdeacon of the diocese of British Columbia and an architect; J. C. M. Keith, architect who won a world-wide competition for design of the cathedral, and Dean Cecil Quainton, dean when the present cathedral was begun.

Also to be erected is a likeness of Archbishop Harold E. Sexton.

Shields of the coat of arms of the diocese of London and British Columbia will be placed by moulded heads of the Archbishop of Canterbury and Archbishop Sexton.

With the west side of the cathedral almost completed, workmen will move to the east side. Original plans call for extension of the nave, including a large crossing, choir loft and sanctuary.

Youth Admits Shooting

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Detectives said today that an 18-year-old San Diego, Calif., youth has admitted the bizarre cross-bow shooting of a Los Angeles liquor store clerk.

Officers said Michael Yosick sneaked in a back door of the store with robbery in mind. He said he fired an arrow at the legs of clerk William Allen, 19, and became frightened when the arrow struck Allen in the body. Allen lay near death for five days.

High Sea Net Fishing Seen Sockeye's Doom

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fraser River sockeye salmon fisheries face extinction unless there is international control of high seas net fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

This warning was given Friday by Robert J. Schoettler, chairman of the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission.

Mr. Schoettler, supervisor of fisheries for Washington State, told industry representatives here that the commission will recommend areas off the coasts of the two countries be closed to net fishing.

"If ocean fishing is allowed," he said, "it will only be a short time until all territorial fishing is extinct and management of the Fraser sockeye run impossible."

Reports have been received from Seattle that 80 to 100 U.S. and Canadian boats using mile-long nets are making huge hauls of fish outside territorial limits.

Big Iron Ore Project Set For Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Plans for a "very considerable" iron ore development project, involving construction of docks and ore-processing plants in the far north of Quebec Province, have been submitted to the Quebec government, Premier Duplessis announced Friday.

The premier said plans for the development on the northwest side of Ungava Bay have been submitted by Canadian-born steel magnate Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland.

International Iron Ores Ltd., Atlantic Iron Ores Ltd., and Oceanic Iron Ore of Canada Ltd. hold vast tracts of territory on Ungava Bay near the Payne River.

RECEIVES AWARD—N. R. Crump, Montreal, president of the CPR, today was presented with the Edward O. Seits memorial award for international management for 1956 in a ceremony at St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Crump received the award for "manifold contributions to free enterprise and the management profession."

U.S., Canada Allied in Drive On 'Boiler Shop' Stock Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission said Friday it has been in close touch with Saskatchewan authorities for many months in efforts to wipe out "fraudulent selling" by telephone of highly speculative stock in which United States investors have lost millions.

Commission chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong said the commission has received "excellent cooperation" from chairman A. E.

Blakeney and the staff of the Saskatchewan Securities Commission.

Another spokesman said Blakeney has conferred frequently with his American opposite numbers in the drive to rid the province of any "high-pressure" boiler shop stock-selling operations.

The spokesman said the situation was reviewed with Blakeney at a meeting of the National Association of Securities Administrators in Rockland, Maine, early this month.

ALBERTA CRUDE TOTAL UP BY 7.8 PER CENT

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta crude oil production during the first seven months of 1956 totalled 79,000,000 barrels, an increase of 7.8 per cent over the seven-month period last year, the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board reported Friday.

Gross value to the producers was $194,491,707, an increase of more than $45,000,000 over the same period last year.

The report showed that 23 per cent of Alberta's oil is being exported to the United States, compared with 10 per cent in 1955.

Huge U.S. Power, Park Expansion for Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Robert Moses, chairman of the New York State Power Authority, Friday outlined a $300,000,000 program of power and park development for the United States side of the Niagara River.

The highlights of the program: 1. Redevelopment of the hydro-electric power of Niagara Falls by the state of New York. 2. A waterfront parkway for approximately five miles along the heavily industrialized shore upstream from the falls themselves. 3. Expansion of state park properties at the falls and along the Niagara Gorge below the falls, including ultimate extension to Lake Ontario, 15 miles away. 4. Construction of a new bridge over the Niagara River, joining the Niagara section of the state thruway with present and planned Canadian parkways.

Moses' detailed plans were incorporated in a report issued in connection with meetings Friday of both the council of parks and the power authority.

Moses and his plan received the approval of New York Governor Averell Harriman.

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP)—Preacher Roe, former major league baseball pitcher, has been elected president of the chamber of commerce here. He opened a grocery store last year.

WESTWARD MIGRATION

At a press conference last week, Armstrong and other officials told of the movement of high pressure stock salesmen westward from Ontario and Quebec. They mentioned Regina as one point to which some had gone.

A spokesman said today they also have turned up at Calgary and in Manitoba.

Saskatchewan Provincial Secretary Russell Brown said earlier this week in published dispatches that there had been no reports of unregistered brokers operating in the territory or of unqualified stocks being offered to the public.

Brown suggested that SEC used the term "fraudulent selling" because he said SEC does not approve of any stocks being sold which have not been registered with them. He suggested SEC should have talked over the situation with his government before releasing a story.

CHARGES FRAUD

An SEC spokesman told a reporter there was no intention to convey the impression that a "boiler shop paradise" existed in Regina or in Blakeney's jurisdiction.

The spokesman insisted that SEC knows of several issues of unregistered stock sold out of Regina also accompanied by "fraudulent misrepresentations."

He said James E. Newton, SEC regional chief in Seattle, Wash., has been working with Blakeney and other Western Canada officials to prevent both Canadian and American investors from "being fleeced in speculative stock sales."

He said the drive was "in no way a reflection of reputable dealers in Canada."

"We also have some unscrupulous operators" in the U.S. and there has been "a growth of such dealings" in New York where circus pitchmen and confidence men have been recruited to carry on sales campaigns.

STARTED WITH SUEZ CRISIS

Toronto Stocks Down 8th Straight Week

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The stock markets this week suffered the sharpest decline in four months as five sessions of lower prices plunged the markets into their eighth straight week on the downside.

Although there was nothing dramatic about any of the declines during the five sessions, they were steady and only at the start of the week did any signs of firmness show. The trend of the markets since the end of the losing sessions since the end of July when Egypt nationalized the Suez Canal.

Observers said the hesitant performance of the Canadian stock markets in recent weeks can be attributed to several causes, but primarily it must be linked to a policy of credit restraint on the part of monetary authorities and to the resulting conditions of tight money.

The Suez crisis is another factor which is causing a reappraisal by investors. Its impact on the Canadian economy is favorable for the oil industry, which has acquired a new stature as a result of the Middle East situation. The air of uncertainty, however, is making buyers reluctant to step into the market.

The Canadian markets are also suffering from a lack of leadership from Wall Street.

Index losses at Toronto were the heaviest since the week ended in early August, the indices have steadily tumbled. In eight weeks, industrials lost 40 points, base metals 30 and western oils 22. Golds dipped seven points.

Trading at Toronto was the lightest in many weeks with a volume of 17,106,000 for the five sessions against last week's 18,268,000.

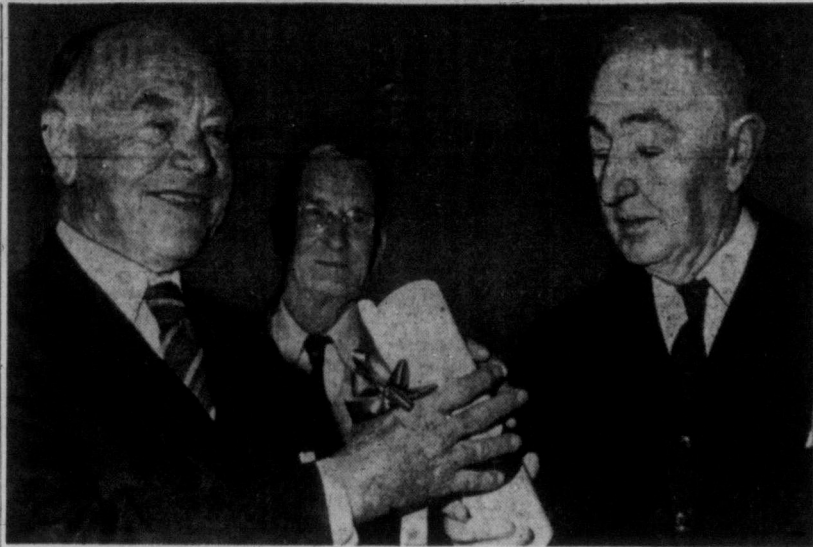

Of 825 issues traded during the week, 509 declined while only 124 advanced. Another 182 were unchanged.

Industrial losses were more widespread than in recent weeks with some stocks losing as much as $8.30, such as Aluminum, Algonquin, off $6.50, Howard Smith, off $5.50, International Paper, off $3.75 and B.C. Power, off $4.25, were a few of the issues which stood out.

Senior base metals and copper issues took most of the heavy loss among metals. Granduc was down 75 cents and Chibougamau mining 40 cents in copper. International Nickel and Hudson Bay, two of the higher-priced seniors, lost $2.25.

Week's index changes at Toronto: Industrials off 9.32 to 464.67; golds off 1.51 to 79.32; base metals off 9.50 to 230.71; western oils off 4.44 to 157.00.

Week's index changes at Montreal: Banks off 1.66 to 52.14; utilities off 1.8 to 138.4; industrials off 7.6 to 292.9; combined off 5.6 to 241.4; papers off 29.60 to 1419.11; golds off 0.36 to 76.63.

There were signs, too, of solid strength in other lines of business. With capacity operations indicated for the balance of the year, steel production topped 100 per cent of capacity for the third week in a row.

Spending of U.S. Consumers Heads for All-Time Record

By WALTER BREDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Sell" may have been the battle cry on Wall Street this week, but Main Street found consumers in a mood to buy.

As business headed into the final three months of 1956, signs indicated that consumer spending in the fourth quarter will surpass all previous records.

The annual autumn spending surge is under way. Brisk fall weather in northern cities brought shoppers flocking to department stores. Where the weather failed to do the trick, shoppers were lured by new styles, new merchandise and vigorous sales promotions.

FEW SOFT SPOTS

Detroit's sleeping giant, the auto industry, would soon come to life; workers laid off in the slack summer months were being called back for production of 1957 models.

Soft spots in the economy also were apparent. One was the stock market, down $4.90 on the Associated Press 60-stock average at $174.70—lowest since Feb. 16.

Layoffs were announced by some manufacturers of home appliances and farm equipment and the government ended its program of encouraging copper producers to raise their output.

The credit pinch was tight as ever. But most of the big indicators still pointed higher.

Prices made news again on other fronts this week.

Joseph Seagram and Sons announced an across-the-board increase for its brands of domestic gin and whisky. Avco manufacturer

ing corporation will boost prices of Bendix washing machines starting Oct. 8. Heating oil prices moved higher along the Atlantic Coast. Boosts of three to four per cent were announced for tin cans.

Wheat Exports 28% Higher Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Exports of Canadian wheat, including flour, during the 1955-56 crop year amounted to an estimated 308,700,000 bushels, the bureau of statistics reports.

This compares with 251,900,000 bushels in 1954-55 crop year and 255,100,000 in 1953-54. It is higher than the 1945-55 average of 272,400,000 bushels.

Exports of wheat as grain amounted to 269,800,000 bushels in the crop year ended July 31, up 28 per cent from the previous year's 211,300,000 bushels. Wheat flour shipments were down four per cent at 38,900,000 compared to 40,600,000 bushels.

U.K. STILL TOP
The United Kingdom remained the leading importer of wheat and flour from Canada, accounting for 35 per cent of the combined total movement. Wheat exports to the U.K. totalled $6,880,000 bushels last year compared to $9,200,000 the previous year and flour 11,800,000 compared to 12,600,000.

Freight Rates Hike Opposed by Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Canadian farm organizations Friday urged the board of transport commissioners to turn down the railways' bid for a general freight increase of 15 per cent.

Both the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Interprovincial Farm Union Council said there is no basis for the railways' claim that wage increases granted their employees earlier this year can be met only by higher freight rates.

The CFA said that since the last general railway freight rate increase in 1953 railway wages have increased by a substantially smaller amount than wages in general. Yet industry in general had raised its prices from only one to four per cent in that period.

EARNINGS UP
The council brief, presented by chairman Jake Schulz of Saskatoon and read by A. V. Cormack, president of the Ontario Farm

Union Council, said railway financial figures indicate "that their income position is improving to a degree where the additional operating expense brought about by the wage award given earlier this year to their employees can be absorbed by the railways without raising freight rates."

"Additional revenues obtained from rising freight volume should be ample to cover the added labor cost."

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway Friday reported net earnings of $4,631,529 on operations during August. This compared with net earnings of $3,222,432 in August, 1955.

Operating revenues during the month were $47,156,645 while expenses totalled $42,525,116. In August, 1955, revenues were $40,371,696 and expenses $37,149,264.

Earnings in the first eight months amounted to $23,781,630 compared with $17,832,291 in the corresponding period last year.

Service on PGE Resumed; Test Monday for New Diesels

First of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's new diesel-powered Budd cars will make a trial run to Prince George on Monday.

Ralph Chetwynd, minister of railways, until his appointment as agriculture minister in the reorganized cabinet, said the cars eventually will make the trip in 18 hours, faster than buses.

Service on the line was resumed Friday after a temporary span was placed over the long trestle bridge crossing the Mamquam River, two miles north of Squamish.

A section of the bridge collapsed Wednesday under the weight of a 100-ton crane.

Mr. Chetwynd, at the same time, said the rock and mudslide which blocked the PGE inaugural run between North Vancouver and Prince George last month was brought about by natural causes.

The minister previously had hinted sabotage was involved.

Roe to Offer Stock at $16, Toronto Says

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. will offer 500,000 common shares for sale next Tuesday at about $16 a share.

It says the company will pay a dividend soon after the offering, perhaps 20 cents a share.

The Star says share capital of A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. after the issue will comprise 4,821,500 common shares, of which the British parent company, Hawker Siddeley, will hold 4,000,000, or 82.9 per cent. Another 321,500 shares are under option to certain directors and executives.

The paper says a wholly-owned subsidiary, Racair, has been formed to hold the parent group's shares in A. V. Roe Canada.

A. V. Roe Canada has five subsidiaries: Avro Aircraft Ltd., Orenda Engines Ltd., Canadian Steel Improvement Ltd., Canadian Car and Foundry Ltd., and Canadian Steel Foundries 1956 Ltd.

Oil Refinery In Prospect For Alaska

EDMONTON (CP)—Shamrock Petroleum Company Ltd. of Edmonton says it plans to build an oil refinery at Haines, Alaska.

Harris Heisler, vice-president of the Canadian company, said Friday plans are still in the "paper stage" but if "everything falls in place" construction may start next spring. The refinery would go into production in the fall of 1957.

Mr. Heisler said an initial output of 3,000 barrels a day is planned. The refined products would be shipped by truck from Haines, which is 100 miles north of Juneau on the Lynn Canal.

The vice-president said he hopes an official announcement of the project will be made in November.

HWSMON NO WHAMMELER

British Book Lists Oddest Job Titles

By FERN RICH
LONDON (Reuters)—Napoleon described the English as a nation of shopkeepers but that was because he never had a look into the government's new handbook called "Classification of Occupations."

Published by the stationery office and available to the public for 30 shillings ($4.20), it lists the thousands of occupations by which Englishmen who are not shopkeepers earn their steak pies and Yorkshire puddings.

The occupations are listed according to industry but no description of the individual job is given, leading the reader to make what he will of some curious and often blood-curdling names.

SOME SAMPLES
What for example is a fang manager, a bogie man, a back stripper, a sample bruiser, a lynch, a sticker-up and a head setter?

They are workers in the mining, pottery and leather dressing industries.

A fang manager in coal mining looks after ventilation; a bogie man handles coal trucks; and a back stripper breaks coal underground.

A sample bruiser in the metal industry pulverizes samples of ore with a hammer.

A lynch fastens movable limbs in the soft toy trade. A sticker-up fixes pieces of pottery such as spouts on teapots; and a head setter stretches leather.

AND SOME MORE
Then there are the gay sprites who toil at being joy loaders, bobby lads, jolliers, jiggerers, brewer sniffers, pudding fillers or liquorice strippers.

A joy loader loads coal on to trucks and bobby lads measure work done by the miners.

Picture the thin miner, the fat boy, the endless rope boy and the hip and valley maker.

The thin miner works on thin coal seams, the fat boy is a juvenile, unskilled general worker in the coal mines and the endless rope boy attaches or detaches the trucks to "endless" ropes. Hip and valley are names of curved roof tiles.

TONGUE TWISTERS
A pan doctor repairs conveyors in a coal mine and a puddler lays bricks above or below ground.

The mumbler is another name for a glassblower.

Then there are the troiloper and the whammeller. A troiloper catches shrimps on the east coast and a whammeller fishes for salmon or sea trout in estuaries, using a special drift net.

Here's a riddle—what's a ruddlemann? A hwsmon? A gartman? A ruddlemann brands sheep, a hwsmon is a headman on a Welsh farm and a gartman is a herdsman.

Tongue-twisters are the stack thatcher and thistle spudder on the farm.

The warping worker clears out ditches. The chap who is a drowner floods pasture and other land.

Other occupations are listed with what appears to be uncalled-for editorial comment—the push-over man, rat-assistant, thickest cutter, shoddy grinder, sleeper picker. Then from out of the charming past there are the whalebone straightener and the corset threader.

Father Lacombe And Indian Life In Buffalo Days

THE BOLD HEART, by Josephine Phelan; MacMillan. "Arsous-Kits-rapi," or the man of god heart, was the Indian name for Rev. Albert Lacombe who went to the wilds as a young Oblate missionary and served the Indians and Metis of the great Northwest for his lifetime—he died in 1916.

Josephine Phelan of Toronto has written her book specially for younger readers, but for people of all ages it is an interesting study of the historical events of the Northwest Territories and of the work done by the "black robes."

Miss Phelan wrote two previous books in the same general field of history, winning a governor-general's award for her study of D'Arcy McGee in The Ardent Exile, and a work for juveniles, The Boy Who Ran Away.

The Bold Heart is a heart-warming account of Indian life in the buffalo days when Father Lacombe first became a missionary, and trusted friend to the Indians.

He lived through these days into the new era in the West started by the government purchase of Rupert's Land from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Along with the land transfer came other great changes in the story of the West—the rise of the transcontinental railway, the second Riel outbreak and the rapid growth of white settlement.

They signalled an end to Father Lacombe's earlier and more preferred life of working among the Indians and Metis of the plains.

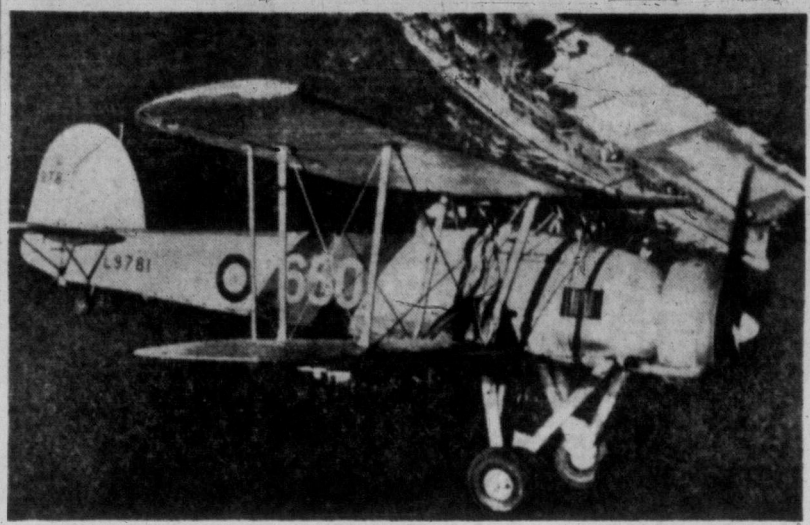

Monarrat Book Banned In South Africa

PRETORIA (Reuters)—The South African government Friday banned Nicholas Monarrat's latest book "The Tribe That Lost Its Head," as objectionable literature.

The book concerns an imaginary island off the southwest coast of Africa under British administration and tells how, with the new chief returning home with an Oxford University education, the tribe awakens to nationalism familiar among other colonial peoples.

Plane preparing to land on Ark Royal. One of several plates illustrating the book.

Fabled Carrier of World War II Met Doom in Sight of Gibraltar

ARK ROYAL, by Kenneth Poolman. The Ryerson Press, Toronto. $3.75. 292 pages.

Pilots of German Messerschmitts who survived the war but still are wondering about the secret weapon looted against them by Ark Royal birdmen will find the answer in this biography of the famed Royal Navy carrier.

Petty officer observers in seaborne Fulmar aircraft were unarmed. When the speedier German planes got on their tails, the Fulmars depended more on logic than lead for survival.

"We had evolved a remarkably successful method," simply by letting go in the slipstream a handful of Admiralty pattern toilet paper which we kept in the back cockpit. . . . The chap following, seeing something coming back at him thought it was pieces of the aircraft he was attacking, and he got out of the way quickly."

So recalls one of the many real ratings and officers aboard Ark Royal who appear in this forepeak to stern bearings book, which traces the ship from her 1937 launching to her sinking by torpedo attack in November, 1941, within sight of Gibraltar.

ELUSIVE SHIP

Mr. Poolman tells the story partly through the lips of the men who sailed in the Ark. His detail loosed against them by Ark Royal birdmen will find the answer in this biography of the famed Royal Navy carrier.

He describes the Ark as an elusive, lucky ship, always in the thick of things—until finally claimed by the deep Vallaia of fighting men-of-war.

Before she died, Ark Royal had proved to the dubious arm-chair admirals that aircraft carriers would replace the battleship as the navy's Sunday punch.

The pursuit of the Graf Spee, the hunting out of the Luftwaffe over Norway, the sorry business of thrashing the Vichy battleships at Oran and her tangle with the Bismarck in mid-Atlantic, are all bits of history in which Ark Royal starred.

But what makes the best reading are the personal episodes that show the spirit of the men who sailed in her and flew above her.

Like the midshipman who rode the rear cockpit of a Swordfish while an Italian dive bomber peppered the air around him.

The Italian ran out of ammo, but knowing the Swordfish's guns were fixed fore and aft, he cruised alongside in safety. He found out how wrong he was when the RN observer produced a revolver and took him on with that until he bled away.

In the current trend to sea adventure stories, Ark Royal should find a welcome spot in any man's library.

Pioneering Parsons Were Tillers of Soil

Reviewed by a Parson's Daughter
MRS. MINISTER, by Olive Knox, Ryerson Press, Toronto, 190 Pages, $3.75.

The story of any family where there are a number of children contains a wealth of material for an interesting book providing there is a member of the family with sufficient talent to write it.

Olive Knox proves she has the requirements with her gay, deeply-moving story "Mrs. Minister," which she wrote "for the sheer fun of later recapturing six years of our life in the United States as a minister's family."

For this reader especially, "Mrs. Minister" was a delightful experience. It brought a flood of memories of horse and buggy days on Vancouver Island.

It recalled the young city-raised girl who came from England to join her pioneer-parson husband who, first from necessity in order to increase the slender stipend then paid to ministers, and later from love of country life, combined farm ing with clerical duties as does the husband in "Mrs. Minister." The book revived memories of life as one of five of a family at South Wellington, St. Luke's, St. Stephen's, Holy Trinity and St. Mary's in Saanich.

PARSON'S 'BRATS'

One thing must be common to all parson's families. The children of Olive Knox's engrossing book had no desire to be classed as the minister's kids and were ready to prove they could do as much mischief as any other kids.

In our own family we hated anything that would isolate us as "the parson's brats" or any move towards making us cherub examples for the rest of the children of the parish to emulate.

There were advantages to country life. There was always a horse to ride and animals to love; musical evenings, intimate friendships, wonderful house parties in country homes.

But with Mrs. Minister's family as with our own, it was a happy day for all when the move was made to city dwelling and a city vicarage.

It is in a spirit of nostalgia that Ontario-born Olive Knox writes her entrancing book. There is no over-emphasis on piety as the title might indicate.

The author has a wonderful gift of humor and characterization. She has not confined her story to the commonplace incidents of family life. There are tragedy and adventure as the family faces a blizzard, prairie fire and other perils of homesteading.

It is a beautifully written book which will have a great appeal to all readers and is not by any means limited to parson's families.

STAMP CORNER

BY REG NAIRNE

East Germany issued a stamp recently to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the death of Robert Schumann, the famous musician. Some bars of one of his compositions were included as part of the design—at least, such was the intention.

But after the stamp had been on sale for two days it was suddenly realized that the piece of music was not Schumann's at all, but was actually written by Schubert!

The stamps were immediately withdrawn and all stocks destroyed. Whether those which were sold before the error was discovered will be scarce remains to be seen.

In a country with the population of East Germany even two days' sales would be considerable, so the stamp will probably not be too rare.

The changeover of watermarks on the current stamps of Great Britain from Tudor crowns to Edward crowns, has now been pretty well completed.

Trying to sort out the two types makes one thankful indeed that only the stamps of the mother country are affected, for it is almost an impossible task to distinguish between them; in fact, it is only by getting specimens with part of the sheet margin attached that one can be sure of them.

The blank tabs do show up the watermarks clearly enough to assure correct identification.

A word of warning—it is not safe to use benzine for detecting the watermarks on these stamps, for the colors run badly as soon as they come in contact with this usually dependable fluid.

ART IN REVIEW

By ROBERT H. SAVERY

Grotesque Element in Painting Employed to Intensify Emotion

Why has the macabre emotion in the grotesque held such an attraction for artists? A good question and one hard for the casual observer to understand.

First, the writer would wish to be perfectly clear that grotesque does not mean caricature. This latter is entirely different for its humor is the fulcrum in art.

The grotesque is a kind of heroic ugliness—a shadow as of the Hunchback of Notre Dame, flitting across the Galerie Royal, a pathetic figure of human suffering against a background of unbridled humor. So, even tragedy, if it is a work of true art, ends in a liberation from sorrow by the transforming power of the artist's creative imagination.

The brilliant and versatile Goya was a master at the portrayal of lyricism and comic verse well seasoned with pathos and satire. So, also the works of Hieronymus Bosch and Pieter Bruegel which present one characteristic common to all—the spirit of a danse macabre with the exaggeration and oddness of a deliberate discord between the apparent subject and the pictorial methods.

The somewhat spectacular exploitation of fantastic elements by the modern surrealist Salvador Dali gives the writer the same reaction.

The great Greco used a sense of the grotesque in his most beautiful creations to increase the emotional excitement of human despair, the abnegation of self and resignation to fate.

Albrecht Durer borrowed largely from the realm of the grotesque to strengthen the emotion he had established by his dominance of the passions portrayed by a penetrating speculative intelligence.

"Blind Beggar," by Francisco Goya . . . "spirit of a danse macabre."

A thoughtful study of the examples from the work of these men will show by its approach that the grotesque in art deeply penetrates and charts the vicissitudes of man's uncertain destiny, and herein lies its appeal to painters who wish strongly to excite the emotions by their presentation.

This use of the grotesque has at its best great possibilities for beauty in line of color or both and offers a wide field for imaginative composition, for by its distortions and deformations it penetrates and analyzes the sinister, the weird and tragic in human relations.

INDUCES EMOTION
The artist by the use of such a medium may produce an emotion in the spectator at almost heart-wrenching pathsos for his characters, but at no time through its exaggeration will it approach a debasement to provoke contempt.

The dividing line between beauty and the grotesque is very close when presented by a master hand and this should be stressed, for the grotesque originated by the primitive or incompetent does not fall into the same category, although the educated artist's elimination of non-essentials to his expression may at first glance produce similar results to the casual observer.

Therefore, to appreciate and find a relation between the idea and such a work of art we must analyse the work and seek to completely understand the senses of the artist who produced the work, his feeling and the process of his imagination.

Ghouls Could Get 5 Years in Jail

(See also Page 3)

The two youths and two teen-aged girls charged with offering an indignity to a male corpse in the Alberni cemetery last Sunday have been formally charged and will appear in city police court in Alberni Oct. 6.

In custody are David Windsor Ferguson, 19, William Harold Nelson, 18, and waitresses Alma Doreen Lockner, 19, and Jean Gibson, 17.

They face a maximum penalty of five years each under the section of the Criminal Code dealing with desecration of graves and corpses.

A male corpse was unearthed with a shovel, the casket broken open, a logging chain attached to one ankle and the body towed about 12 feet from the graveside by a car.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY

In addition, grave headstones were thrown around.

Nelson has already pleaded guilty, Ferguson has reserved his plea and the two girls have not pleaded.

Ferguson and Nelson reportedly were with two other girls earlier in the evening and jealousy over Rock 'n' Roll idol Elvis Presley is believed to have provoked the cemetery raid. The girl friends were reported to have left the youths, who then picked up the waitresses and returned to complete the gruesome work.

Possibility of psychiatric examination is being studied.

It is expected all four will be transferred to Oakalla prison on the mainland to await trial.

Somoza Succumbs To Assassin Bullet

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP)—President Anastasio Somoza, undisputed strong man of Nicaragua for 20 years, died today of an assassin's bullets.

The 60-year-old Central American leader never regained full consciousness after an operation performed Sunday by a surgical team including United States surgeons sent by President Eisenhower.

He died in the U.S.-operated Gorgas Hospital in the Panama Canal Zone, where he was flown following the Sept. 21 shooting in which he suffered four wounds.

He had been on a campaign tour seeking another six-year term as president when he was felled at a party and dance at 1,800, 45 miles outside Managua, the capital. His assassin, Lopez Perez, a 27-year-old typesetter, was shot dead on the spot by the president's guards.

Under Nicaraguan law, Somoza's 34-year-old son, Luis, succeeds to the presidency. Congress made him acting president Friday. Another son, Anastasio, Jr., 32, is head of the Nicaraguan army.

Somoza died at 5:05 a.m., a few minutes after receiving the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church. The colorful, 200-pound president had showed steady but slight improvement in the five days following the operation, but at midnight Friday night his condition took a grave turn.

Somoza's son-in-law, Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Nicaraguan ambassador in Washington, told reporters the body would be flown to Managua today or tomorrow.

Persecution Drove Mother Mad
Rioter Sobs

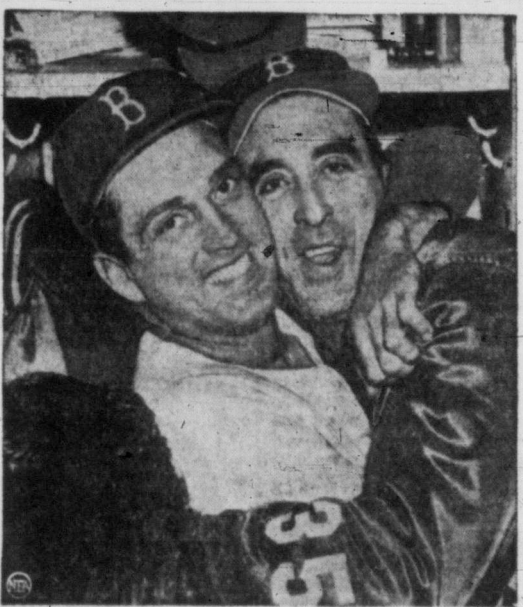

POZNAN, Poland (Reuters)—A sobbing Polish youth today testified that the false imprisonment of his father, a veteran Communist, four years ago had driven his mother mad and made his brother commit suicide.

In a choked voice, 22-year-old Janusz Suward addressed the court trying him and eight other youths for stealing and setting fire to security headquarters during the Poznan riots June 28 in which 33 persons were killed and about 200 injured.

In a second court three other men are being tried for murdering a security officer. Altogether, 133 persons are under indictment as a result of the "black Thursday" bread riots.

Presiding Judge Weisaw Celinski warned the final 10 witnesses to show neither hatred nor sympathy for the three men accused of murder.

Witnesses said the officer was beaten, kicked and trampled upon until he "looked something horrible."

MAGLIE DOES IT AGAIN

In one of baseball's all-time comebacks, Sal Maglie, 39, came to the rescue of the Brooklyn Dodgers again today as he pitched the Bums to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh and moved them into a first-place tie with Milwaukee in the tense National League pennant race. Maglie, right, receives big hug from pitcher Carl Erskine after hurling no-hit-no-run game against Philadelphia. Brooklyn purchased Maglie from Cleveland Indians this season.

Maglie, Home Runs Sink Pirates 6-2

FLASH

Brooklyn Dodgers were leading Pittsburgh 1-0 after four and one half innings in the second game of today's doubleheader.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Sal Maglie pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers back into first-place tie in the torrid National League race today with a 6-2 conquest of Pittsburgh in the first game of a doubleheader.

The triumph pulled the Dodgers into a tie with the Milwaukee Braves, who meet the St. Louis Cardinals tonight. Brooklyn and the Pirates play a second game this afternoon with Roger Craig slated to pitch for the defending world champions and Ronnie Kline for the Pirates.

Both Milwaukee and Brooklyn have a single game tomorrow, the final day of the season. All the vital scoring was done in the first inning with Frank Thomas hitting a home run with a mate on base for the Pirates and Sandy Amoros doing the same for the Dodgers after Jackie Robinson's single had scored Junior Gilliam. Carl Furillo homered in the sixth and Gil Hodges hit a two-run homer in the eighth.

ALLOWS ONLY 6 HITS

Maglie climaxed his great comeback today with a brilliant six-hit performance over Bob Friend.

The 39-year-old rejuvenated right-hander who, in his last start had hurled a no-run, no-hit epic against Philadelphia, got much-needed batting support from Amoros, the little Latin left-fielder, who was the "goat" of Wednesday's loss to the Phillies by miffing an easy fly ball that opened the door to three Philadelphia runs.

Amoros not only played faultlessly in the field, but he was the big man on the attack against Friend with a home run, single and walk in three appearances at the plate. Sandy's two-run homer in the first inning, with two out overcame a 2-0 Pittsburgh lead.

TWO GAMES TO PLAY

The Dodger's "must" victory in the first game of the "do-or-die" doubleheader gave them 91 victories against 61 defeats, matching the Braves' figures, and leaving both contenders with just two games to play.

Maglie, junked by New York Giants last year, and sold by Cleveland to the Dodgers last May, claimed his 13th victory with a pressure-ridden pitching exhibition that threw the jam-packed Ebbets Field crowd into a state of joyous delirium. The 34,000 fans stood up as often as Maglie ambled off the field and gave the man they used to hate the wildest ovation of his brilliant career.

Sinister Sal struck out six and walked only one as he gained his third clutch victory in 13 days and his 11th triumph in 13 decisions since July 24. Between the first and ninth innings he permitted no Pirate runner to venture beyond first base and during one stretch he retired 15 consecutive batters.

Laird Undecided On His Future As Liberal Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal leader Arthur Laird said Friday night he is considering whether he should resign.

He made the statement after a holiday that followed the defeat of his party and himself in the Sept. 19 election.

"I have come to no final decision," he said. There was no discussion of his leadership at a day-long meeting here Friday of officers of the B.C. Liberal Association. Liberal leaders said only a provincial convention could discuss the question of leadership and there is no Liberal convention planned for 1957.

RN Sub Completes Emergency Trip

GREENOCK, Scotland (CP)—A submarine today transported a critically ill man across the storm-lashed Firth of Clyde for an operation after two surface vessels were forced back.

An army motor launch first tried to cross the bay to deliver 34-year-old Reginald Wateridge to Greenock hospital. When the storm turned back the launch, a 60-ton fishing vessel tried. Finally, the 2,200-ton sub Andrew took Wateridge aboard through a torpedo hatch.

Jailed 24 Years Pleads to Die

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—After 24 years in prison, Gilbert F. Collie, one-time "gorilla man" of San Bernardino County, has asked the California Supreme Court to execute him and free him "from this living death" of a life term.

In a written plea Friday, Collie, now 76, said: "I ask that the court set aside the commutation and that the death penalty be invoked to give me a more merciful and humane death by hanging, as provided by the original sentence."

"I am old... ready for death and tired of this mockery of justice. It appears the courts take sadistic glee in refusing to hear me. I want freedom from this living death."

Collie, called the "gorilla man" because of his tremendous strength and black beard, was convicted in 1932 of the murder of two men. He was sentenced to be hanged. California's legal form of execution then.

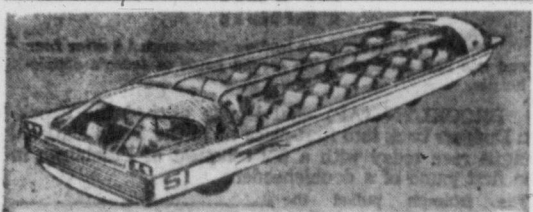

He became deranged waiting for execution and was sent to a state hospital where psychiatrists determined that he could retain his sanity when not faced with the threat of execution. The late governor James Rolph commuted the sentence to life imprisonment with a permanent injunction against parole.

High Sea Net Fishing Seen Sockeye's Doom

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fraser River sockeye salmon fisheries face extinction unless there is international control of high seas net fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

This warning was given Friday by Robert J. Schoettler, chairman of the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission.

Mr. Schoettler, supervisor of fisheries for Washington State, told industry representatives here that the commission will recommend areas off the coasts of the two countries be closed to net fishing.

"If ocean fishing is allowed," he said, "it will only be a short time until all territorial fishing is extinct and management of the Fraser sockeye run impossible."

Reports have been received from Seattle that 80 to 100 U.S. and Canadian boats using mile-long nets are making huge hauls of fish outside territorial limits.

Friends, Celebrities Honor Beloved Babe

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The beautiful but simple Lutheran order for the burial of the dead was read Friday for Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

Hundreds of residents of the home town the Babe never forgot joined with celebrities of the sports world for the funeral services of the world's greatest woman athlete. She died Thursday.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want," Rev. A. C. Wydek read from the 23rd psalm in opening the brief service in Bethlehem Lutheran Church.

The small church of buff tile and brick is only a few blocks from the old Didrikson home on Daucett Street where the Babe as a tomboy began to capture the admiration of her hometown and the world.

To the pastor's right in the 500-seat chapel was the blue silk casket of redwood. Immediately in front of the casket sat George Zaharias, the 280-pound husband who tenderly attended the Babe's every need during a three-year battle she knew she could not win. Death ended the battle in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex. Cancer had ravaged the once powerful body — reducing its weight from 145 to 80 pounds—but it never defeated the Babe's spirit.

With a handkerchief, George wiped away tears as he left the funeral home chapel. Then he departed for Forest Lawn Memorial Park to select a burial plot on which George plans to erect a large monument to the courageous woman he, Beaumont, and the world loved so well.

EXPERTS' FINDINGS DUE SHORTLY

Smoking-Lung Cancer Link Proved by 4-Year Study

NEW YORK (AP)—The World-Telegram and Sun says in a copyrighted story that the American Cancer Society final report on a survey of smoking habits will "flatly state" there is a relationship between cigarette smoking and death from lung cancer.

The report, ending a four-year study, is not to be issued for several months.

Officials of the cancer society said it is their opinion that the report will offer the conclusions as published by the newspaper.

They explained, however, that previous reports issued by the society offered the same conclusions and that the forthcoming report merely will serve as a survey-ending step.

Some of the points cited by the newspaper:

The lung cancer rate for habitual cigarette smokers—those who smoke about a pack a day — is about 10 times as high as for men who don't smoke at all.

Officially of the cancer society said it is their opinion that the report will offer the conclusions as published by the newspaper.

Popov Worked On Spy Chain, PM Reports

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent says expelled Russian diplomat Gennadi Popov was a suspected NKVD espionage agent trying to set up spy links in Canada.

But he indicated at a press conference Friday he wished the story of the Popov-Staples affair had not become public. He would have wanted to keep it under wraps to protect James Stanley Staples' name and to prevent the possibility of the affair being blown up into an international incident.

He would not be surprised, he said, if all foreign governments represented in Canada had spy systems, though not necessarily operating in this country. In any case Canada had a "pretty efficient" counter-espionage organization.

Police Club Crowd Trying to See Princess

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (Reuters)—Police used clubs to beat back excited Mauritians fighting to get a glimpse of Princess Margaret as she came ashore today to this Indian Ocean island from the royal yacht Britannia.

The crowd was in an ugly mood for a moment until it was distracted by the appearance of the King's African Rifles band and the princess' guard of honor.

But the embattled Mauritians cheered as the princess stepped ashore on a thick red carpet and walked smiling to a rose-decked reception platform.

Despite a last-minute political ruckus which led one council member to plead with Mauritians to boycott Margaret's reception because of the extra expense of the visit, she was cheered by waving crowds all along her route.
